GERMAN, SOVIET CLASH RUMORS PERSIST

CITY TO BALLOT ON REQUEST FOR NEW TAX LEVY

Council To Put Resolution
Up For Decision In August Primary

DEPARTMENTS NEED CASH

One And One-Half Mill To
Be Sought; 65 Percent
Of Total Necessary

A resolution calling for a 1½ mill tax levy for two years to be placed before voters in the Primary election was adopted by Council Wednesday night. The levy will require a 65 percent vote
for passage.

Council hopes that the levy will provide the general fund with sufficient revenue to operate the city police, fire and service departments for the next two years. The resolution, as originally voted by Council provided the levy be in operation for three years, but Solicitor Joe Adkins told the Council that in conferring with officials of the State Tax Commission he had been informed that two years
was the maximum length of time for which the levy could be voted.

A 1½ mill levy would provide approximately $12,000 a year or $24,000 over a two year period,
but none of the money would be available until after the December tax collection. Solicitor Adkins pointed out, however, that Council might issue anticipatory notes on the levy immediately after its passage up to 90 percent of the estimated collections, which would mean that should the levy pass Council would have available about $20,000 by the middle of August.

Notes To Be Issued

Since the city is in need of funds
for current operating expenses, it is generally expected that if the levy passes, anticipatory notes
would be issued.

An ordinance calling for $2,950
as an amendment to the annual appropriation ordinance, introduced at Wednesday night's meeting, pointed out to Council the financial needs of the city departments.
Safety Director Karl Herrmann
told Council that unless additional funds could be secured the police cruisers would have to be taken from the streets, since there is no more money available to buy repairs or gasoline. The ordinance called for an addition of $500 to the police "Incidental Fund," $300 to the "Special Police Fund" and $300 to the "Maintenance of Equipment Fund."

Other Funds Aided

The ordinance provided for an addition of $300 to the hospitalization fund for relief, the safety director declaring that the fund providing hospitalization for city relief clients was exhausted, and $1,000 for medical supplies for Berger Hospital. Five hundred dollars was to go to Berger Hospital's "Other Supplies Fund" and $50 to its "Repair Fund."

The ordinance was given its first reading at Wednesday night's meeting.

Conn Out: Cupid and Bomber Get Him!

Mary Lou Smith and Billy Conn

Odds Make Boxer Favorite In Tiff With Disgruntled Prospective Dad-In-Law

NEW YORK, June 19—Billy Conn, the Irish kid from Pittsburgh, who almost whipped Joe Louis, is setting himself for another fight —
and this time he has Dan Cupid in his corner.

Betting odds make Conn the favorite.
In this corner we have Conn—in that corner his prospective father-in-law, James L. Smith of Pittsburgh.

Smith, a one-time National League ball player, doesn't want his daughter, pretty Mary Louise Smith, to marry Conn. For one reason, she's only 18.

Now, Smith is Irish himself and has a lot of Irish fighting spirit,
and he doesn't care even if Conn is admittedly a great fighter. He vowed yesterday he'd take on Billy in physical combat before he'd see Conn's love match come off.

Smith was officially "out of town" today in Pittsburgh after hearing and reading how Billy the kid went 13 murderous rounds with Louis, the champ.

At Smith's home, a woman
wearily said over the long distance telephone that "the whole family has gone to Ocean City, N. J., and please don't bother us."

She said none of the Smiths—
the missus or Mary Lou—would be back until Monday.

At Ocean City, where the Smiths have a private home, a relative allowed Mary Lou was already on her way back to Pittsburgh by train.

At any rate, it seemed evident
Billy the kid would have to travel
even harder and faster than he did at the Polo Grounds last night to make this match turn into a victory.

Registrar Walter Evans of Jefferson County, Pa., said Billy and Mary Lou made at a marriage application on May 28.

Some reports had it they already were married. That, however, was denied.

Nevertheless, Mr. Smith was quoted:

"I'll knock hell out of that fellow, and he's probably the first one to say I could do it. I want him to stay away from my family. Mary Lou is only 18."

REICH INVASION
DRIVE EXPECTED
WITHIN 18 DAYS

LONDON, June 19 — A new warning that Germany may attempt to invade Britain "in eighteen days or even eight" was published today by the London Evening Standard, owned by Minister of State Lord Beaverbrook.

A leading editorial, believed inspired by the highest sources, stated:

"America has given us great assistance. We are grateful. But all the machines issuing from her huge industries will not save this island if our exertions are less than they can be.

"Whatever else Hitler turns, his real aim is one gigantic stroke to seize London this year as he seized Paris last.

"He is determined to invade. He is determined to finish the war before winter. The test may be in 18 days or even eight."

ALLIED FORCES
OPEN ASSAULT
ON DAMASCUS

Appeal For Surrender Of City Ignored; Much Opposition Met

LONDON, June 19 — A Reuters (British) dispatch from Jerusalem said today that British and Free French forces attacked Damascus after occupying the Mezza airport four miles west of the ancient Syrian capital.

A military spokesman at Jerusalem, who announced the assault on Damascus, also was quoted by Reuters as stating that the Allies were meeting a "good deal of opposition."

He said, however, that the British and Free French forces were exerting continuous pressure all along the line south and southeast of Damascus and around Jebelkalb.

Other reports indicated that Damascus was attacked after an effort to persuade the Vichy forces to surrender the age-old city proved futile.

London military authorities cautiously admitted it was "very probable" that operations already are in progress for an Allied advance into Damascus.

The Daily Express quoted the Free French radio station at Jerusalem as stating that the British commander had given Gen. Henri Dentz, French high commissioner for Syria, until 5:30 a. m. today to surrender Damascus.

According to this account,
Dentz was warned that unless Da-muscus were surrendered by that hour it would be attacked by the entire Allied forces.

DRIVER JUMPS
AS TRUCK GOES
OVER IN DITCH

Ray Thompson, 37, of Macedonia, driver for the A. W. Hinch-cliff Lumber Co. of Cleveland, leaped from his heavily-laden truck a mile north of Circleville at 9:45 a. m. Thursday when the vehicle left Route 23 and turned over into the ditch on the west side of the road.

Thompson told Deputy Sheriff Earl Weaver that he thought he heard a tire going down on one side of the truck and that when he looked out of the cab the vehicle started off the road. He jumped into the highway and was not injured.

The truck was damaged and a load of quarter-sawn oak, bound from Cleveland to Chillicothe, was thrown out of the vehicle
into the old traction line roadbed.

UNCLE SAM TAKES OVER SABOTAGED ITALIAN SHIP

WASHINGTON, June 19—The first Italian ship of the 28 that were sabotaged in United States and Canal Zone ports has been taken over by this government,
the U. S. Maritime Commission announced today.

The vessel, the Clara, was requisitioned yesterday at 10 a. m.
EST by representatives of the Commission at Savannah, Ga.

BILLY Conn, the curly-haired youth who had the heavyweight title virtually jingling in his pocket up until this moment in the 13th round, lies knocked out on the canvas at New York's Polo Grounds
after walking into a punch that Louis shot out with neck-cracking force. A crowd of 54,487 fans paid an estimated $450,000 to witness this 18th title defense of Champ Joe Louis.

GERMANS CLAIM LORING WITTICH'S
200 OF ENEMY'S VIOLIN VALUED
TANKS WRECKED AT $1,500 TAKEN

BERLIN, June 19—The German high command announced today that German forces in North Africa have destroyed or captured at least 200 British tanks since the current battle raging around the northwestern Egyptian town of Sollum began.

A war communique said large quantities of British war material, including many field guns and anti-tank guns, also had been captured, and that a German tank formation attacked and silenced or captured several British artillery batteries.

BERLIN—German military authorities declared today that port establishments at Alexandria,
strategic British Mediterranean
naval base, were severely damaged during a raid by German planes last night. Bombs of heaviest calibre were dropped during the attack.

LONDON—The British treasury issued a white paper today requesting a further supplementary credit of 1,000,000,000 pounds sterling to defray expenditures arising from the war.

WASHINGTON—Finnish Minister Hjalmar Procopé today branded as "unjustified" Great Britain's action in suspending navicerts for the shipment of food supplies to Finland because of the presence of German troops
in that country.

LONDON—Passengers arriving at Shanghai aboard the liner President Coolidge reported sighting more than fifty Japanese warships off Amoy, moving southwards, Reuter's (British) news agency said in a Shanghai dispatch today. The fleet, according to Reuter, included five battleships but consisted mainly of destroyers and submarines.

ISTANBUL—Turkish officials announced today that all crops
in the nation this year will be purchased by the state. A law authorizing the purchase was passed by the Turkish general assembly.

NAZI-TURK AMITY PACT
SEEN AS BRITISH BLOW

BERLIN, June 19—Germany
hailed the new Berlin-Ankara pact of amity today as a diplomatic triumph for the Reich and a heavy blow to British prestige.
Although the Anglo-Turkish pact remains in force, a German foreign office spokesman emphasized the significance of the German-Turkish agreement by stating:

"I leave it to your judgment to pass a verdict on the importance of the treaty in the light of the land's position.

"The importance of the pact
scarcely needs comment from our

Reports Of 'Final'
Note To Russia
Unconfirmed

LONDON, June 19 — The air waves of Europe were flooded today with a bedlam of rumor and report purporting to show that Nazi Germany and Soviet Russia are at war.

For propaganda purposes,
or possibly from sheer hysteria, broadcasters in various capitals of Europe poured into London a series of sensational and spectacular reports which British newspapers
splashed under banner headlines.
But neither from Berlin or Moscow came the slightest hint that anything but friendly relations still prevailed.

The authoritative British Press Association cast doubt on the reports, but radio listeners were startled by a broadcast from the Tiflis station in Georgian Russia
asserting that a "certain power"
is attempting to reconquer the Bessarabian territory which the Soviet Union recently took from Romania by agreement with Germany.

Simultaneously came a dispatch from Stockholm which quoted travelers arriving at Helsinki
from Russia as telling of intensive Soviet mobilization.

The railway line connecting Moscow and Leningrad, these travelers related, is blocked by troop trains.

Coming on the heels of a treaty of non-aggression and "mutual interest" signed between Germany and Turkey at Ankara yesterday,
the strange series of broadcasts served to raise British press and officialdom to a high pitch of excitement.

Nerve War Conducted

Seasoned observers recalled similar instances in the past when "planted" announcements by interested governments were used for the simple purpose of clouding
an issue or carrying out a "war of nerves" for psychological purposes.

But hardly has any such manufactured information in the past had any such sinister ring as this announcement emanating from Tiflis:

LONDON, June 19—Charges that a "certain power" is attempting to reconquer the Bessarabian territory, which Russia recently took from Romania and that fighting is under way was broadcast by the Tiflis (Russian) radio today.

Broadcasting in the Georgian
dialect of Josef Stalin's homeland,
the announcer said:

"Contact has been made along the Bessarabian frontier between the glorious, determined frontier guards and advanced outposts of a certain power trying to thrust
its way to Kamenetz and Podol-

"Up to last evening the attack
was being victoriously repulsed.

"Jackal contingents (presumably this was a reference to Ro-

way behind the sponsors of the

The Tiflis radio also announced concentrations of German mechanized divisions and infan-

air squadrons at Cernauti, Roma-

the port of Constanza.

ALL SUSPECTED
SABOTEURS WILL FIND DOOR SHUT

WASHINGTON, June 19—Moving to prevent espionage and sabotage in the United States, the government today barred all persons suspected of acting as agents for "certain countries" in Europe from entering America.

The State Department during the night instructed all diplomatic and consular officers in Europe to withhold visas from aliens having close relatives residing in "certain countries and in territories controlled by those countries."

While the department mentioned no country by name, it is evident that the restrictive measure is directed at Germany and Italy and the nations controlled by them.

Department officials said that the latest move was taken "because of the increasing number of instances known to the department where persons leaving certain countries in Europe have been permitted to leave only after entering into an obligation to act
as agent in the United States for the governments controlling the countries from which they desire to depart."

"The only exception made to the rule was that consuls may recommend granting of visas to certain applicants who still have relatives in the "certain countries," but whose entry would not endanger the "public safety of the United States."

EMPIRE BOMBERS
HAMMER GERMAN
DISTRICTS AGAIN

LONDON, June 19—British bombers hammered ports and naval bases in northwestern Ger-

Brest on the French coast and the great seaport of Bremen last night and early today.

The latest RAF raids marked the eighth successive night that British bombers have attacked in force.

Several Days Of Clear
Weather Send Farmers
Into Their Wheat Crops

With more reasonable weather returned to the Circleville and Pick-away County community, farmers plunged into their neglected fields
Thursday, and were cultivating corn and cutting hay and wheat.

The last two days of fair weather has dried the ground considerably and enabled tractors and binders to operate without serious difficulty.
Some wheat over the county already is cut and with fair weather continuing the greater portion of the county's wheat crop will be cut and shocked within the next week.

Combines will not begin to work
for ten days yet, agricultural authorities said, since the grain must be dead ripe before combines can operate efficiently.

Farmers generally are reporting wheat crops good, although some damage has resulted from early frosts and recent rains have brought rust to some of the fields.
County AAA officials are expecting to make some payments for wheat losses this year.

There are approximately 62,000 acres of wheat in the county this year, about the same acreage as last year. Government marketing quotas should assure farmers who stay within their allotments of good prices for their grain, although AAA officials report that many farmers are planning on taking the penalty and selling over their quota.

Temperatures Wednesday climbed to 83, the highest they have been for some time, and although they slid to 57 Thursday morning, they were expected to go back into the eighties before night.

CITY TO BALLOT ON REQUEST FOR NEW TAX LEVY

One And One-Half Mill To
Be Sought; 65 Percent
Of Total Necessary

A resolution calling for a 1½ mill tax levy for two years to be placed before voters in the Primary election was adopted by Council Wednesday night. The levy will require a 65 percent vote for passage.

Council hopes that the levy will provide the general fund with sufficient revenue to operate the city police, fire and service departments for the next two years. The resolution, as originally voted by Council provided the levy be in operation for three years, but Solicitor Joe Adkins told the Council that in conferring with officials of the State Tax Commission he had been informed that two years was the maximum length of time for which the levy could be voted.

A 1½ mill levy would provide approximately $12,000 a year or $24,000 over a two year period, but none of the money would be available until after the December tax collection. Solicitor Adkins pointed out, however, that Council might issue anticipatory notes on the levy immediately after its passage up to 90 percent of the estimated collections, which would mean that should the levy pass Council would have available about $20,000 by the middle of August.

Notes To Be Issued
Since the city is in need of funds for current operating expenses, it is generally expected that if the levy passes, anticipatory notes would be issued.

An ordinance calling for $2,950 as an amendment to the annual appropriation ordinance, introduced at Wednesday night's meeting, pointed out to Council the financial needs of the city departments. Safety Director Karl Herrmann told Council that unless additional funds could be secured the police cruisers would have to be taken from the streets, since there is no more money available to buy repairs or gasoline. The ordinance called for an addition of $500 to the police "Incidental Fund," $300 to the "Special Police Fund" and $300 to the "Maintenance of Equipment Fund."

Other Funds Aided
The ordinance provided for an addition of $300 to the hospitalization fund for relief, the safety director declaring that the fund providing hospitalization for city relief clients was exhausted, and $1,000 for medical supplies for Berger Hospital. Five hundred dollars was to go to Berger Hospital's "Other Supplies Fund" and $50 to its "Repair Fund."

The ordinance was given its first reading at Wednesday night's meeting.

RIO DE JANEIRO, June 19—In a desperate attempt to run the British blockade through to Germany, the freighter Hermes which has been tied up at Rio de Janeiro harbor for two months sailed today with a huge cargo.

In her holds were supplies of cast iron, castor seeds, hides, coffee and cotton.

(Lloyd) register, authoritative annual of shipping lists no German merchantman by the name Hermes. However, there are two Dutch freighters by that name, of 3,768 and 2,746 tons.)

NERVE WAR CONDUCTED
Seasoned observers recalled similar instances in the past when "planted" announcements by interested governments were used for the simple purpose of befuddling an issue or carrying out a "war of nerves" for psychological purposes.

But hardly has any such manufactured information in the past had any such sinister ring as this announcement emanating from Tiflis:

"Contact has been made along the Bessarabian frontier between the German and Russian forces."

Weather Send Farmers
Into Their Wheat Crops

With more reasonable weather returned to the Circleville and Pickaway County community, farmers plunged into their neglected fields Thursday, and were cultivating corn and cutting hay and wheat.

The last two days of fair weather has dried the ground considerably and enabled tractors and binders to operate without serious difficulty.

Some wheat over the county already is cut and with fair weather continuing the greater portion of the county's wheat crop will be cut and shocked within the next week.

Combines will not begin to work for ten days yet, agricultural authorities said, since the grain must be dead ripe before combines can operate efficiently.

Farmers generally are reporting wheat crops good, although some damage has resulted from early frosts and recent rains have brought rust to some of the fields. County AAA officials are expecting to make some payments for wheat losses this year.

There are approximately 82,000 acres of wheat in the county this year, about the same acreage as last year. Government marketing quotas should assure farmers who stay within their allotments of good prices for their grain, although AAA officials report that many farmers are planning on taking the penalty and selling over their quota.

Temperatures Wednesday climbed to 83, the highest they have been for some time, and although they slid to 57 Thursday morning, they were expected to go back into the eighties before night.

'Red' Radio Says Fight Under Way

"Certain Power" Grabbing
At Territory Taken
From Romania

LONDON, June 19—Charges that a "certain power" is attempting to reconquer the Bessarabian territory, which Russia recently took from Romania and that fighting is under way was broadcast by the Tiflis (Russian) radio today.

Broadcasting in the Georgian dialect of Josef Stalin's homeland, the announcer said:

"Contact has been made along the Bessarabian frontier between the glorious, determined frontier guards and advanced outposts of a certain power trying to thrust its way to Kamenetz and Podolski."

"Up to last evening the attack was being victoriously repulsed. 'Jackal contingents' (presumably this was a reference to Romanian forces) are nosing their way behind the sponsors of the Bessarabian reconquest."

The Tiflis radio also announced concentrations of German mechanized divisions and infantry forces as well as important air squadrons at Cernauti, Romania, and of German sea craft at the port of Constanza.

The announcer, at times using an almost hysterical tone of voice, said:

ALL SUSPECTED
SABOTEURS WILL FIND DOOR SHUT

WASHINGTON, June 19—Moving to prevent espionage and sabotage in the United States, the government today barred all persons suspected of acting as agents for "certain countries" in Europe from entering America.

The State Department during the night instructed all diplomatic and consular officers in Europe to withhold visas from aliens having close relatives residing in "certain countries and in territories controlled by those countries."

While the department mentioned no country by name, it is evident that the restrictive measure is directed at Germany and Italy and the nations controlled by them.

Department officials said that the latest move was taken "because of the increasing number of instances known to the department where persons leaving certain countries in Europe have been permitted to leave only after entering into an obligation to act as agent in the United States for the governments controlling the countries from which they desire to depart."

The only exception made to the rule was that consuls may recommend granting of visas to certain applicants who still have relatives in the "certain countries," but whose entry would not endanger the "public safety of the United States."

EMPIRE BOMBERS

LONDON, June 19—British bombers hammered ports and naval bases in northwestern Germany, the Nazi naval base at Brest on the French coast and the great seaport of Bremen last night and early today.

The latest RAF raids marked the eighth successive night that British bombers have attacked in force.

OHIO WPA LOOKS RED CROSS HAS AT QUOTA SLASH AID SCHOOL IN ORDERED JULY 1 OPERATION HERE

COLUMBUS, June 19—Ohio WPA officials went into a huddle today to consider an anticipated cut in the Buckeye state's quota of 42 percent which would necessitate abandonment of a number of projects throughout the state.

Ohio Administrator, Dr. Carl Watson, said the state's quota would be cut, effective July 1, from 83,000 persons to 48,500. He said it probably would be a week before it is determined just which projects will be dropped.

Dr. Watson explained, however, that abandonment of projects will leave no eyesores and waste of put funds because the local sponsors are pledged to complete unfinished work.

A year ago, the WPA had 125,373 persons on its Ohio pay roll and at its peak in 1937 employed 287,000.

Meanwhile, a survey revealed that the number of unemployed persons registered with the Ohio State employment service is 33 percent below the number actively listed two years ago and that the number of persons on direct relief is the lowest since 1933. In addition, Unemployment benefit payments in Ohio in May were 61 percent below the payments made in the same month of last year.

VOICE ...of the... PEOPLE

Camp Claiborne, La.
June 15, 1941

Dear Friends:
It has been quite a while since we have given you any news of our life in camp and the happenings around there, so we thought we'd drop you a few lines to let you know how the Circleville boys are getting along.

On June 1 we left Camp Shelby by motor convoy and on June 3 arrived at Camp Claiborne, La. That is, we're near Camp Claiborne. We're not actually in the camp itself but on the reservation. Claiborne is just a new camp but shows promise of being a nice place when completed. Because of the many oil wells in this part of the country, all the tents are equipped with natural gas heaters which are quite an improvement over our coal burning stoves.

Our base camp is situated about four miles west of Camp Claiborne and approximately seven miles from Alexandria, La., the closest city of any size. The weather here has been most emphatically damp. Out of the fifteen days we have been here, it has rained twelve. And when it does rain here, it really rains. The land is very swampy, as most of this part of Louisiana is, and the water stays on top of the ground instead of soaking in. This fact makes sleeping in pup tents rather a sad affair since they are far from waterproof and the water also runs under them.

Most of our time is not spent in the base camp but on maneuvers in the western part of the state near the Texas border. For the last five days we have been engaged in mock combat with the "Blue Army", (we are the Reds), consisting of the 37th Division and a mechanized cavalry unit. It was as close to actual warfare as you could come without shooting somebody. It is almost impossible to maneuver in the swampy territory we were in. Even the big four ton trucks with six sets of wheels, duals all around, would sink in the marsh clear to the bed. The big, nine ton, 155 millimeter howitzers with which our regiment is equipped sank in over the axles. All the new trucks are equipped with a power winch on the front with which the truck can be pulled to solid ground.

Without these it would have been almost impossible to have gotten through the swamps. The 37th Division is scheduled to arrive back in Camp Shelby by June 29 and that is a very pleasant prospect after the time spent down here.

Hoping this news will be of interest to you, we will close for this time.

THE ARMY AND LABOR

President Roosevelt's statement why he took over the North American Aviation Company's plant in Los Angeles is as unassailable as the position of the strikers was indefensible.

Yet the catalog of reasons for action, is a curious document. An agreement had been violated, mediation flouted, national union officials defied, production was necessary to national defense, and finally much of the property in the plant was owned, directly or indirectly by the United States. Therefore the Army.

All true. But already the statement has added to the confusion of the public. Is it only when all these conditions exist that the United

THE ASTRAL influences bearing rule on this day may indicate some rather unusual or strange phases, in which the greatest success may come through sudden or quite unforeseen intervention. This may be the endorsement or substantial encouragement of superiors, employers or those in high places in moments when things seem most baffling or critical. There may be angles in which the public welfare or public activities seem jeopardized.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a year in which the unexpected, surprising and unpredictable may take shape in moments when some peculiar or strange adventure is under consideration, with doubts as to happy outcomes. Elders, or superiors, even strangers may step in at the crisis, which must be engineered with conventional and practical maneuvers and not sensational gestures. Public factors are important, with probable public recognition.

A child born on this day may have much versatility and ingenuity, daring to venture into unknown and untried fields.

the lid on business men, and laughed up his sleeve as he clamped. Just where American labor or American business will emerge in this program of centralizing the whole political power of a nation in a single capital and largely in a single man and his appointees, no one can foretell. But it looks as if the atrophy of the states, the emasculation of the towns and cities, and the paresis or lethargy of the citizens will do here what they did in Europe. And the President become our Chief of Police. However there is a chance that a lot of people in the Congressional elections next year will go back to the Constitution and reaffirm some of the principles of Thomas Jefferson which Lincoln called the "definitions and axioms of a free society."

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging headache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

CHIEF OF DRAFT HITS CONDITION OF YOUNG MEN

One Third Rejected Because Of Varied Deficiencies, Hershey Declares

NUTRITION NEED CITED

"National Shame," Director Of Service, Says; Need For Change Cited

Describing the general physical condition of this country's youth as something of which "we nationally should be thoroughly ashamed," Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, deputy director of Selective Service, has called for immediate, positive and vigorous measures to correct the existing "dangerous" health situation. Pointing out that 380,000 Selective Service registrants have been found unfit for general military services out of 1,000,000 who have been given physical examinations, the deputy director said that one-third of the rejections was due, either directly or indirectly, to nutritional deficiencies. Commenting on specific disabilities which were cause for rejection, General Hershey asserted: "It is not my purpose to attempt to fix the causes for these disabilities. Many suggestions are advanced. Food undoubtedly plays a very considerable part whether it be because of lack of a proper amount, or because the food was of an improper kind.

Nutrition Deficient

"It has been estimated that perhaps one-third of the men rejected was due to nutritional deficiencies, either directly or indirectly. In terms of men the Army today has been deprived of nutritional deficiencies of 150,000 men who should be able to do duty as soldiers. This is 15 percent of the total number which have been physically examined by the Selective Service System."

The General, although saying that "whether we are worse off physically than we were in 1917-18 is undoubtedly controversial" and pointing out that today physical standards for military service are higher, added:

"The fact remains that, while we may be no worse now than twenty-four years ago, we seem certainly to be no better. Better or worse or the same, we are physically in a condition of which we should recognize as dangerous and which we should take immediate, positive, and vigorous, measures to correct."

Discussing corrective measures to improve the general health standard, the Deputy Director said that registrants not yet classified "one a duty to their government for service."

Whole Man Needed

"That obligation," he asserted, "calls for the service of a whole man—a man entirely alive—a healthy, strong, well-developed man. It is the duty of the registrant faced with this responsibility to use every means available to make himself fit to serve."

Insofar as registrants already rejected for service after physical examinations are concerned, General Hershey declared:

"This group numbers somewhere in the neighborhood of 400,000, with about one-half rejected for any military service and the remainder judged satisfactory only for limited military service. Of course every effort should be made to correct every correctable defect in this group but the 200,000 who are fitted for limited military service create a special problem.

"They are known in their communities as individuals capable of performing physical labor, or of participation in activities that require a reasonable amount of physical proficiency. With this group will be an increasing number of individuals who have been rejected for mental deficiencies.

"I do not believe our people will continue indefinitely to accept avoidance of military obligations by the class to which I have just referred.

"If this assumption is accurate, we are confronted with the necessity for rehabilitation for the members of this group where it is possible to better their physical condition, and to attempt to discover an efficient place in national defense for those who have uncorrectable disabilities."

The Deputy Director said: "Some of these rejected registrants will attempt to correct their physical disabilities without urging; some additional ones will do so if persuasion is used; many will be content to continue as they are.

Up To Government

"I believe that it will be necessary to place the responsibility for the rehabilitation of these individuals directly on the government.

"Whatever methods may be used for the correction of physical disabilities in the general public, this group must be utilized in a manner which will not permit them to escape military obligations."

KNOW YOUR MONEY

And Avoid Loss Due to Counterfeits

TO THE AMERICAN PUBLIC:

The United States Secret Service and your police wish you to know your money, and through this nation-wide educational program aim to suppress the major crime of counterfeiting.

CHIEF WILSON

Observance of these few simple rules will safeguard the pocketbooks of the Nation. Therefore, I urge every person to carefully study the rules and to follow them.

The United States Secret Service is grateful for the whole-hearted cooperation which it has always enjoyed from your police officers, and we now solicit the assistance of every American citizen in this effort to prevent crime through this modern method of education, instead of the age-old method of prosecutions and imprisonment.

John J. Wilson
Chief, U. S. Secret Service.

HOW TO DETECT COUNTERFEIT BILLS

1. KNOW YOUR MONEY!

2. COMPARE the suspected bill with a genuine of the same type and denomination. Observe carefully the following features:

- (a) PORTRAIT: Genuine is lifelike; stands out from oval background which is a fine screen of regular lines; notice particularly the eyes. The counterfeit is dull, amorphous, or uncharacteristically white; scratchy; background is dark with irregular and broken lines.
- (b) SEAL: On genuine, sawtooth points around rim are identical and sharp. On counterfeit, sawtooth points are usually different; uneven; broken off.
- (c) SERIAL NUMBERS: Genuine have distinctive style; firmly and evenly printed; same color as seal. Counterfeit, style different; poorly printed; badly spaced; uneven in appearance.
- (d) PAPER: Genuine bills are printed on distinctive paper containing very small red and blue silk threads.

3. RUBBING a bill will NOT prove whether it is genuine or counterfeit; ink will rub off of either.

4. REMEMBER—NOT ALL STRANGERS ARE COUNTERFEITERS, BUT ALL COUNTERFEITERS ARE LIKELY TO BE STRANGERS.

TYPES OF CURRENCY

The only three types of currency printed by the United States Government for circulation are:

1. FEDERAL RESERVE NOTES, which bear GREEN serial numbers and seal.
2. UNITED STATES NOTES, which bear RED numbers and seal.
3. SILVER CERTIFICATES, which bear BLUE numbers and seal.

CHIEF OF DRAFT HITS CONDITION OF YOUNG MEN

NUTRITION NEED CITED

"National Shame," Director Of Service, Says; Need For Change Cited

Describing the general physical condition of this country's youth as something of which "we nationally should be thoroughly ashamed," Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, deputy director of Selective Service, has called for immediate, positive and vigorous measures to correct the existing "dangerous" health situation. Pointing out that 380,000 Selective Service registrants have been found unfit for general military services out of 1,000,000 who have been given physical examinations, the deputy director said that: one-third of the rejections was due, either directly or indirectly, to nutritional deficiencies. It is a condition we should recognize as dangerous and which we should take immediate, positive, and vigorous measures to correct."

Discussing corrective measures to improve the general health standard, the Deputy Director said that registrants not yet classified "owe a duty to their government for service."

Whole Man Needed

"That obligation," he asserted, "calls for the service of a whole man—a man entirely alive—a healthy, strong, well-developed man. It is the duty of the registrant faced with this responsibility to use every means available to make himself fit to serve."

Insofar as registrants already rejected for service after physical examinations are concerned, General Hershey declared:

Of course every effort should be made to correct every correctable defect in this group but the 200,000 who are fitted for limited military service create a special problem."

"If this assumption is accurate, we are confronted with the necessity for rehabilitation for the members of this group where it is possible to better their physical condition, and to attempt to discover an efficient place in national defense for those who have uncorrectable disabilities."

The Deputy Director said:

"Some of these rejected registrants will attempt to correct their physical disabilities without urging; some additional ones will do so if persuasion is used; many will be content to continue as they are."

Up To Government

"I believe that it will be necessary to place the responsibility for the rehabilitation of these individuals directly on the government."

HOW TO DETECT COUNTERFEIT COINS

1. KNOW YOUR MONEY!
 2. RING all coins on a hard surface. Genuine coins sound clear and bell-like. Counterfeits sound dull.
 3. FEEL all coins. Most counterfeit coins feel greasy.
 4. COMPARE the reading (the corrugated outer edge) of a suspected coin with one known to be genuine. The ridges on genuine coins are distinct and evenly spaced. On counterfeit coins they are poorly spaced and irregular.
- ### HOW TO CASH GOVERNMENT CHECKS
1. KNOW YOUR ENDORSERS!
 2. DEMAND definite identification of the payee.
 3. COMPARE endorsement on check with signature on identification.
 4. WPA workers carry cards with identification number, signature and physical description. If you cash WPA checks, compare these three things and make sure the description fits that of the person presenting the check.
 5. BE CAUTIOUS about cashing a check on which the payee's address is far removed from your place of business.
 6. REMEMBER—You may lose the amount of any Government check which has not been endorsed by the rightful payee.
 7. MAKE A CHECK BEFORE YOU TAKE A CHECK!!

NAZI ATTEMPTS TO GAIN GREEK SHIPS CHARGED

Consul General In Gotham Blamed For Exerting Undue Pressure

BORCHERS SENDS NOTES

Uncle Sam Nips Efforts After Captains Refuse To Abide By Order

WASHINGTON, June 19 — Unimpeachable sources today revealed that the German consul general in New York, Johannes Borchers, attempted less than a fortnight ago to exert pressure on the captains of Greek ships in American ports.

Borchers sent messages to the Greek captains ordering them to place their ship at the disposal of the puppet Greek government established in Athens after the German occupation of Greece. He said he was acting on behalf of the German-controlled Athens government in transmitting the orders.

The Greek captains refused to obey Borchers' orders and notified the proper Greek and American authorities in this country of the matter.

Disclosure that the German consul general had sent these orders to the Greek captains was one of the chief factors which prompted President Roosevelt to order the expulsion of all Nazi consuls and propaganda agents from the United States.

In view of the fact that most of the Greek ships are engaged in carrying American supplies to the British and Allied forces in Europe, the American government considered Borchers' action constituted both an improper and subversive activity.

Inspired In Berlin
Respective of whether the orders actually were issued by the German-controlled Athens government, American officials regard them as having been inspired by Berlin.

If the Greek captains had accepted the orders transmitted by Borchers, it is thought in official quarters in Washington that they might later have been instructed either to sabotage their ships or attempt to escape with them into an axis port.

It was pointed out that if the Greek captains had not been loyal to the democratic cause, they might have sailed from American ports with cargo loads of vital war supplies and, once at sea, headed for an axis-controlled port in Europe.

Germany's action in seeking indirectly to get control of the Greek ships in American waters recalled a similar move by the Italian government in connection with Yugoslavian vessels in this country's ports.

Early last May, Rome sent wireless messages to the captains of 17 Yugoslavian ships in American waters ordering them to sail immediately for "friendly" South American ports and report to the Italian consuls there.

The Yugoslavian captains ignored the orders and advised Yugoslavian Minister Constantin Fotitch in Washington, who in turn, notified the State Department.

Ships Boarded
U. S. coast guardsmen were immediately ordered to board the Yugoslavian vessels in a precautionary measure, but they were quickly withdrawn when it became apparent the Yugoslavian captains could be trusted. In view of the good faith of the Greek captains, the American government likewise considered it unnecessary to take any precautionary measures concerning the Greek ships now in American ports.

The number of Greek vessels affected by Borchers' orders is withheld in deference to the government's ban on the publication of any information concerning the movement of ships carrying American supplies to Britain.

U. S. FAMILIES ARE SMALL
CHICAGO. — The average American house has lost a room in the last fifteen years, according to data compiled by the Mortgage Bankers Association. The average house of today has five rooms compared with an average of six rooms per house fifteen years ago, the association reported. Smaller American families was given as one reason for the change.

MAYOR CALLED BY U. S. TO CAMPAIGN FOR OFFICE

SUMMIT, N. J., June 19 — The town of Summit is without a mayor today.

Mayor Guido F. Forster, a lieutenant commander in the Naval Reserve, was called up for active service as navigating officer of the liner Munargo which has been converted into a naval auxiliary vessel.

The mayor, however, said his hat is in the ring for re-election next September even though he'll not be around to campaign.

can Aviation strike, was put on the stand as a Government witness.

The idea of having Frankenstein testify was proposed by Director of Immigration Lemuel Schofield in charge of the deportation proceedings. But it was opposed by FBI Assistant Director Earl Connelley, who asked if Schofield knew that Frankenstein was going to say on the witness stand, Schofield indicated that the United Auto Worker Vice-President was going to tell about Bridges' communist background, but admitted that he had not gone into the details of his testimony.

"I'm absolutely against any witness going on the stand until he has reviewed his testimony in advance," Connelley remonstrated. So they talked with Frankenstein, who, however, declined to reveal his testimony. Later Connelley saw Frankenstein talking with Bridges in the corridor and warned Schofield to be careful. The Immigration director, however, insisted that he be put on the stand.

Almost immediately after he was sworn in Frankenstein pulled a prepared statement out of his pocket and proceeded to berate Harry Bridges twice.

While Government attorneys rose to object, Frankenstein pounded the Government all over the lot. But the trial judge would not stop him because he was the Government's own witness.

So Frankenstein proceeded calmly to the end of his prepared statement, stepped down from the witness chair, put on his hat and caught a plane for Los Angeles to join the North American Aviation negotiations.

AUTO SHOWDOWN

Behind that demand of Undersecretary of War Patterson for a 50 percent slash in auto production is a head-on showdown in a long undercover inner Defense battle between the "business as usual" boys and the military chiefs.

It never leaked out, but before Patterson sent his letter to OPM insisting on the auto cut, the two groups clashed face to face at a meeting in his office.

Among those present at this meeting was OPM Director General Knudsen. The former General Motors head was told bluntly that unless auto production was drastically curtailed it would be impossible to obtain the steel and alloys needed for the greatly expanded plane, ship, freight car and pipe line programs. One or the other had to be sacrificed; there wasn't enough metal for both autos and defense.

The military chiefs backed their argument with the following telling figures:

Despite the 20 percent auto cut three months ago, the industry has been making new production records for weeks. Last week it established an all-time high with 132,000 cars. At present rates of production the industry is operating on a 11,000,000-ton steel consuming basis. This tonnage almost exactly coincides with the steel shortage which OPM experts several weeks ago said would face the country. Military chiefs also argued that there was no real need for this huge auto output since over 10,000,000 good used cars are in the hands of dealers. They also claimed that in addition to taking urgently needed steel and alloys from defense, the auto industry was using tens of thousands of badly needed skilled craftsmen and machine tools.

REPUBLICAN REPLOGUE

In this momentous tug-of-war, the most strenuous advocate of a drastic curb on auto output is J. Leonard Replogue, whose brilliant work as steel administrator of the World War Industries Board won him the Distinguished Service Medal. A Republican National Committeeman from Florida, he is a 100 percent supporter of defense and all-out aid to Britain, is extremely critical of the progress of both.

In February, 1918, confronted with the need to obtain more steel for the hard-pressed Allies, Replogue banned the making of autos for civilian use. Some of the auto makers squawked, but Replogue stood pat. He holds that similar action now would again solve the critical steel problem.

Note—Some Defense chiefs favor dealing with the auto issue by a different method than cutting production. They advocate imposing mandatory priorities on steel, under which Defense would have first claim on steel output, with the leftover being allocated by Price and Consumer Administrator Leon Henderson for civilian use. Under such a system, auto production might be cut to 25 percent, or less.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Faced with a serious growing shortage of power, Defense chiefs will recommend to President Roosevelt a nationwide two-hour daylight saving time schedule. Both Britain and Germany have had this in effect for more than a year. The original OPM plan called for pushing back the clock only one hour, but this is now considered not enough. . . . One of the first labor leaders to telegraph the President congratulations on his forceful action in ending the outlaw strike at the North American Aviation plant was Frank Grillo, able young general secretary of the CIO Rubber Workers.

The Yugoslavian captains ignored the orders and advised Yugoslavian Minister Constantin Fotitch in Washington, who in turn, notified the State Department.

Ships Boarded
U. S. coast guardsmen were immediately ordered to board the Yugoslavian vessels in a precautionary measure, but they were quickly withdrawn when it became apparent the Yugoslavian captains could be trusted. In view of the good faith of the Greek captains, the American government likewise considered it unnecessary to take any precautionary measures concerning the Greek ships now in American ports.

The number of Greek vessels affected by Borchers' orders is withheld in deference to the government's ban on the publication of any information concerning the movement of ships carrying American supplies to Britain.

U. S. FAMILIES ARE SMALL, CHICAGO, — The average American house has lost a room in the last fifteen years, according to data compiled by the Mortgage Bankers Association. The average house of today has five rooms compared with an average of six rooms per house fifteen years ago, the association reported. Smaller American families was given as one reason for the change.

MAYOR CALLED BY U. S. TO CAMPAIGN FOR OFFICE

SUMMIT, N. J., June 19 — The town of Summit is without a mayor today.

Mayor Guido F. Forster, a lieutenant commander in the Naval Reserve, was called up for active service as navigating officer of the liner Munargo which has been converted into a naval auxiliary vessel.

The mayor, however, said his hat is in the ring for re-election next September even though he'll not be around to campaign.

can Aviation strike, was put on the stand as a Government witness.

The idea of having Frankenstein testify was proposed by Director of Immigration Lemuel Schofield in charge of the deportation proceedings. But it was opposed by FBI Assistant Director Earl Connelley, who asked if Schofield knew that Frankenstein was going to say on the witness stand, Schofield indicated that the United Auto Worker Vice-President was going to tell about Bridges' communist background, but admitted that he had not gone into the details of his testimony.

"I'm absolutely against any witness going on the stand until he has reviewed his testimony in advance," Connelley remonstrated. So they talked with Frankenstein, who, however, declined to reveal his testimony. Later Connelley saw Frankenstein talking with Bridges in the corridor and warned Schofield to be careful. The Immigration director, however, insisted that he be put on the stand.

Almost immediately after he was sworn in Frankenstein pulled a prepared statement out of his pocket and proceeded to berate the Justice Department for trying Harry Bridges twice.

While Government attorneys rose to object, Frankenstein pounded the Government all over the lot. But the trial judge would not stop him because he was the Government's own witness.

So Frankenstein proceeded calmly to the end of his prepared statement, stepped down from the witness chair, put on his hat and caught a plane for Los Angeles to join the North American Aviation negotiations.

COINCIDES WITH THE STEEL SHORTAGE
Military chiefs also argued that there was no real need for this huge auto output since over 10,000,000 good used cars are in the hands of dealers. They also claimed that in addition to taking urgently needed steel and alloys from defense, the auto industry was using tens of thousands of badly needed skilled craftsmen and machine tools.

REPUBLICAN REPROGLE

In this momentous tug-of-war, the most strenuous advocate of a drastic curb on auto output is J. Leonard Replogle, whose brilliant work as steel administrator of the World War Industries Board won him the Distinguished Service Medal. A Republican National Committeeman from Florida, he is a 100 percent supporter of defense and all-out aid to Britain, is extremely critical of the progress of both.

In February, 1918, confronted with the need to obtain more steel for the hard-pressed Allies, Replogle banned the making of autos for civilian use. Some of the auto makers squawked, but Replogle stood pat. He holds that similar action now would again solve the critical steel problem.

Note—Some Defense chiefs favor dealing with the auto issue by a different method than cutting production. They advocate imposing mandatory priorities on steel, under which Defense would have first claim on steel output, with the leftover being allocated by Price and Consumer Administrator Leon Henderson for civilian use. Under such a system, auto production might be cut to 25 percent, or less.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Faced with a serious growing shortage of power, Defense chiefs will recommend to President Roosevelt a nationwide two-hour daylight saving time schedule. Both Britain and Germany have had this in effect for more than a year. The original OPM plan called for pushing back the clock only one hour, but this is now considered not enough. . . . One of the first labor leaders to telegraph the President congratulations on his forceful action in ending the outlaw strike at the North American Aviation plant was Frank Grillo, able young general secretary of the CIO Rubber Workers.

Despite the 20 percent auto cut three months ago, the industry has been making new production records for weeks. Last week it established an all-time high with 132,000 cars. At present rates of production the industry is operating on a 11,000,000-ton steel consuming basis.

THE BIG PUSH

JOHN D. Biggers, director of the production division of the OPM, reports considerable progress in armament.
The monthly output of airplanes, he says,
has been trebled, the output of tanks increased 600 percent, and powder production increased 1,000 percent. Various things of less importance are proceeding just as well. But there is no smug contentment among Mr. Biggers and his associates.

"I want to make it just as clear as possible," he says, "that we cannot for one moment be satisfied. One of the most dangerous things that could happen to this country today would be for our people, in any walk of life, to get the impression that the defense program is rolling along—that it will take care of itself."

This is the biggest and most important defense job ever tackled in human history.
And every step of it will be up-hill work.

A COLLEGE CEREMONY

IT is a matter of interest in two great countries when the leader of the British Empire, at the most critical moment in Britain's history, receives a degree from an American university in the city where his mother was born. This ceremony links in sentiment two nations already joined in a struggle to save modern civilization. The address of President Valentine and the response of Mr. Churchill were impressive.

"No need for us to offer comfort," said
the college president, "for your bluff words cheer England and cheer us. No need to do you honor, for even time hastens
to write high your name. No need to cry 'courage' to the sons of England. When Marlborough goes off to war, no one knows when he will come back, but we know he will not give up. Come the three quarters of the world in arms, and England
shall shock them."

From Shakespeare the college president turned to Lincoln, saying: "We must dedicate ourselves to the great task that this government by the people shall not perish from the earth."

Then Churchill, in his response, held his head high and spoke of duty and unity.
"Men and women are learning," he said,
"that there are spirits, not animals. We shall all be proud to have been born at such a time, to permit us to do the service required. We stand the faithful guardians of the rights and dearest hopes of a dozen states and nations now gripped in servi-

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

PREMIER ANTONIO SALAZAR of Portugal very naturally
teases State Secretary Hull
sincerely for information concerning Uncle Sam's plans relative to the Cape Verde and Azores islands, off the Iberian peninsula and West African coasts, opposite and pretty near to our West Indies and northeastern South America.

These are the footholds that are so much talked of as tremendous desirabilities for the United States to occupy, thus beating the Axis to possession of 'em, as bases
for control of the South Atlantic and maybe for future operations against our southern west-hemi-spherical continent, Panama and possibly our own Yankee mainland. Strategically they're of vast importance. There's no dispute about that. Equally important and also urged for American occupancy are the Canary islands,
in the same oceanic neighborhood,
and the port of Dakar, on the West African mainland.

The Canaries and Dakar, however, aren't Premier Salazar's headaches. The Canaries are Spain's and Dakar's French-owned. The Cape Verde and Azores, though, are Portuguese,
and it's evident that worry over
'em keeps Senator Salazar (the reality is a dictator) awake nights.

Hardly a day passes that some representative from his Washington legation isn't a caller at the state department, endeavoring to learn what we're going to do.

Being sorry for these visitors
Secretary Hull and his aides treat
'em in kindly fashion, but they don't get much enlightenment, for the simple reason that Uncle Sam's government hasn't yet made up its own mind—or, if it HAS semi-made it up, it still isn't quite sure.

A TOUGH SPOT

Meantime Premier Salazar is out on a limb.

Now, it's a safe bet that the Portuguese, in principle, would be perfectly willing to have the United States navy or Britain's or both taking care of their islands.
They can't do it themselves.
They're not strong enough. And they certainly don't think that Uncle Samuel should be doing temporary occupying, would fail to hand their two insular groups
back to 'em after the current emergency.

As for John Bull, he's been considerate of Portugal for generations. Portugal's a little peevee of a country at home, but it's got large colonial possessions—in Africa and off the Cape Verde and the Azores. Plenty of other, stronger powers undoubtedly would have grabbed these colonies off long ago, but Mr. Bull, for some unknown reason of his own, didn't do it, wouldn't permit anybody else to do so—and what he said
went, since he was supreme at sea.

The Portuguese were grateful.
They and the British traditionally are warm friends.

But, if the Axis gobbled those two island groups, Premier Salazar can't but feel sure that they'd be gone for good—also, presently, Portugal's African holdings, and

Macao, off China, and a little dab
of territory on the edge of India.
That the Portuguese are pro-British and anti-Axis there can't be any question, and at least they're not afraid of us, because we're pro-British, too.

But look at the map! Portugal's a narrow fringe alongside western Spain. Spain alone could overrun it overnight. Furthermore Spanish Caudillo Franco is believed to have ambitions to do it and absorb the whole place into his own domain. Besides, Franco, though not outright allied with the Axis, seems exceedingly close to letting Axis forces into Spain,
on their way toward north Africa via Gibraltar. If he doesn't actually INVITE 'em in, perhaps they'll BREAK in, anyway. If they do, it's a cinch he'll acquiesce
even more readily than the Vichy government's doing so.

AXIS DANGER

With Axis-troops rampaging
through Spain and Caudillo Franco already eyeing it, greedily,
what chance is there that the outfit won't slip over onto Portuguese soil? The Axis won't have the slightest objection to a Franco grab of Portugal in any event.
They may even help it—though Franco won't need their physical aid, he's so much stronger than the Portuguese.

And suppose that, meanwhile,
the United States has anti-Axisly occupied the Cape Verde and the Azores, with what's sure to be interpreted as Portuguese approval.
That'll be the finishing touch. Is it any wonder that Premier Sala-zar's on the anxious seat?

WASHINGTON—In any showdown between the giant army of Adolf Hitler and the equally huge battalions of Josef Stalin, U. S. military experts are betting on the Nazis.

Russia's army for years was the largest in the world, even today may be somewhat bigger than the German. Furthermore, it first developed many military tricks now made so effective by the Nazis, such as parachute troops and the mass use of tanks.

Furthermore, the Russian army is well-equipped, well-trained and well-disciplined, though not nearly as well mechanized
as the German.

However, Hitler has two big advantages over Stalin. One is the German genius for organization and efficient transportation. The other is the fact that Germany can send lightning strokes against Russia
in two or three different areas, and to defend against these the Russian army has to be scattered over a tremendous area instead of concentrated in two or three places.

For instance, U. S. experts figure Hitler
will strike at Stalin from three directions:
1. Via Finland toward Leningrad. Already General Mannerheim, who hates Russia, has been in conference with German generals, and for some time has been ready to cooperate with Germany in a drive on Leningrad.

2. On the other hand, Germany might strike from Warsaw through Brest-Litovsk
into Polish Russia.

3. Finally Hitler might move from Rumania through the Ukraine to Kiev and Odessa. This would be the deadliest attack of all, aimed to cut Russia off from her main southern outlet to the sea. Already German troop transports are reported at Black Sea ports of Rumania and Bulgaria, waiting to strike at Russian oil on the other side of the Black Sea.

Or Hitler could attack on all three of these fronts at once, simultaneously using long-range Nazi bombers to blast Moscow and Leningrad.

Result (?): Nazi military men who sit around the beer gardens in Switzerland and Sweden boast that Russia would crumble in three weeks.

DIET AND HEALTH

Cases of Real Vitamin Starvation Very Rare

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

● The last two days we have reviewed the subject of the vitamins,
those chemical elements which are present in foods in small quantities but are so necessary for complete bodily health and vigor. Of course human beings and animals have always got vitamins in their foods if they were perfectly healthy, but only within recent years have we known of the existence and the necessity of these food elements. The knowledge has created a great deal of activity on the part of nutritionists and food manufacturers, who have thought

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

that it was a good sales point to state that their foods were reinforced with vitamins.

I do not believe that this is necessary. All of us should and do get the vitamins we need in the form Nature intended us to take them, in our ordinary foods. I believe that the average American gets plenty of vitamins in an average diet. We have been told however by Surgeon-General Parran of the Public Health Service that forty per cent of the American public are suffering from vitamin starvation, and when some of us talk about an "average diet," we are asked sarcastically what an average diet is. That question is not so difficult to answer. An average diet is one that contains a raw fruit, berries or tomatoes, a glass of milk, an egg, butter, green vegetables, and meat at least twice a week. Even the meat may be omitted if an extra egg or other protein food is substituted.

Frequency of Vitamin Starvation

Now as to this vitamin starvation that is sweeping the country.
I have been very skeptical of it because, in a large clinic, I do not see many cases and I have written to some of my friends to try to find out how frequent it is. I have figures from a large hospital in the East which takes care of a class of people that ordinarily would not be able to obtain a varied or expensive diet, and I am told that in the three years, 1938, 1939, and 1940 there were nearly

47,000 patients in that hospital,
only 111 of whom were diagnosed
as sick with a vitamin deficiency.
In a California hospital where the same class of people are cared for, there have been nearly 7,000
patients in the last three years and only 26 cases of vitamin deficiency of any kind diagnosed.

Vitamin B

We hear that there is a high incidence of Vitamin B deficiency in expectant mothers. One of my friends has gone over her records for me and has found in the ten years between 1929 and 1939, out of 16,649 mothers there has been no case of Vitamin B deficiency observed. In a large Chicago hospital during the last five years, 9,000 women have been cared for in the obstetrical department with two cases of neuritis which might be due to Vitamin B deficiency.

On the whole I feel that we can discount the scareheads about the number of vitamin-starved people in the United States. This, of course, does not mean that we can afford to relax in our efforts to provide well-balanced meals for everybody. These statistics simply show that the American people have learned the lesson of vitamins and are getting far better-balanced meals than the theoretical-minded nutritionists would have us believe.

jury I had a patch of hair on my

Should I have all the rest of the Answer:—I do not know, but I am sure a great many of my readers would like to find a permanent permanent, and if you will make the experiment of shaving

your entire head and let me know if the results are favorable, I will spread the news.

STUDY COMBINATIONS

YOUR UNDERSTANDING of the game can be greatly increased
if you will devote some solitary study to the deck of cards with which you play. Not only will it enable you to understand why certain recommended plays are winning plays, but it will in some instances change your entire ideas about how to play particular combinations. Don't use just a deck of cards. Also get out some paper and a pencil, so you may make compilations of the facts you discover and then calculate chances for and against certain moves.

Suppose you have in the dummy
a six-card suit headed by the
A-Q-10, and wish to bring in every trick in the suit. The way you play depends on how many little ones you hold. Of course, if you have six, the side holds 12, so the K must drop under the A. But if you have five, and the first defender follows suit, you want to know whether to play the Q or the A. Lacking information to the contrary, the chances favor playing the A. At that stage, one defender has one less card than his partner, so the odds are 12 to 11, 11 to 10, 10 to 9, and so on, depending on how late in the play it occurs.

If you have four little ones, and the first defender plays small, your best play is the Q. After he follows, there are four ways the suit may be distributed—with the first man having only the small one, with him holding it and the J, it and the K or all three cards
which belong to the opponents.
With the first of these, you have a chance to catch the K, so forget that distribution. With the second, the A play will drop the singleton K, but will lose otherwise.

With the last two, the Q play wins and the A play loses. Hence the chances are about 2 to 1 in favor of the finesse.

Carry this out to where you have three little ones, the defenders having four cards, and the Q
play, followed on the next round
by the A, is best against the eight possible distributions after a small card has been played by the first opponent. If, however, you cut down your number of cards to two, so that the opponents then have five, you will do better in the long run by playing the 10
after the first defender follows suit, and finessing the Q the next time. The same applies also when you have only one card, the defenders consequently having six.

DEATH AT THE SWITCH

RICHARD HOUGHTON

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

MRS. BISBEE clutched the arms of her chair and half rose to her feet as she cried out, demanding to know why her husband had been murdered.

John Jones laid a soothing hand
on one of her shoulders. "Mrs. Bisbee, don't excite yourself so! You must be brave. I know it is easier to say than to do, but he would wish it that way."

She reached up and clutched his comforting hand tightly, so tightly that the knuckles of her own hand showed white. "You're right, I'll try. Are you from the police?"

"No," said Henry before Jones

had a chance to answer. Henry didn't know what the big man would say, but he knew Mrs. Bisbee, and believed she might not talk as freely to the police as to neighbors she could trust. "We are investigating in a—private sort of way," he explained. "We are interested in getting at the truth."

Jones added, "We think your husband must have known who the murderer of John Ives was—that was why he was put out of the way."

"But I'm sure he knew nothing about the murder. In fact, he told me he thought it was suicide."

"That was before the attack on Mr. Spinnelli last night?"

She sat up straighter. Her mind was trying desperately to push her grief to one side. "Yes, it was before," she admitted. "You think he changed his mind after that?"

Henry nodded. "He must have changed his mind. There was no doubt it was murder—after that."

"I didn't have a chance to speak with him. He'd only been home a few minutes and was still in the library—I'd already gone to bed—
when the police arrived." She shuddered. "How could they possibly have thought . . ."

"Now, Mrs. Bisbee," Jones reminded her. "Your husband was proven innocent—remember that.
Don't let his arrest disturb you so.
The police made a mistake, that was all."

The neighbor woman brought in the steaming tea. Mrs. Bisbee accepted a cupful and thanked her.

"We are here to help you," explained Jones. "Can you tell us exactly what happened this morning?"

She sipped the tea, shut her eyes
for a moment and sat with tight lips. When she opened her eyes
some of the horror had left them.
"It must have been about 3 o'clock that I got word," she began. "Someone from the sheriff's office telephoned that Horatio was being let out of the county jail. By that time I was almost hysterical.

I'd been telephoning lawyers. I even got the district attorney out of bed.

"The reaction and relief were so great that I lay down on the couch
in the library and cried. I suppose I fell asleep there. I didn't know when my husband got home. He thoughtfully spread a robe over me
and let me sleep.

"The next I knew it was 5:30.
He was pacing the library floor. He said he couldn't sleep.

"The telephone was ringing. I suppose that was what awakened me. I answered it because it was on a shelf beside the couch.

"It was Marcia Wensley. She said, 'Tell Professor Bisbee I must see him before he leaves for the college.'

"I asked her where and when,
and she said, 'Ask him to stop by
at my house at 7 o'clock.'

"That was all. She hung up. I told Horatio, and he just nodded, mumbled something, and kept on pacing back and forth. I saw he was worrying—studying something over in his mind."

Jones interrupted. "Didn't it seem strange to you that Miss Wensley would telephone so early in the morning? People don't usually telephone their friends at 5:30."

Mrs. Bisbee's eyes widened a bit.
"No, to tell the truth I was too upset to think of that. Now that you mention it, it does seem strange,
doesn't it?"

"And how do you suppose Miss Wensley knew that your husband was out of jail?"

"She telephoned me earlier in the night and promised to keep her to the police broadcasts and let me know if there was any news. In fact, she called me only a few minutes after the officers did, to let me know Horatio was free."

"Did she have anything else to say at that time?"

"She said she had been sitting up, going through copies of old correspondence she had kept from the time she worked for Ives and King, to see if she could find anything that would indicate if anyone had any reason to kill Mr. Ives."

"Ah!" exclaimed Henry. "That's what . . ."

Jones stepped on his foot.
"She said she hadn't found anything," Mrs. Bisbee continued.

Jones reminded the distressed woman, "You spoke of another telephone call—a man's voice, later in the morning. Did you answer that call also?"

"Yes, it came only a moment

after Miss Wensley's call at 5:30.
The voice was very hard to understand. It rasped on my ears unpleasantly. I knew it was a man, and someone I had never heard before."

Henry suggested, "Maybe the voice was disguised."

"Possibly, although he sounded more like he had a bad cold."

The woman with the teapot spoke up for the first time. She had been listening avidly. "Not many colds going around now. Most people catch 'em in the spring. You'd think in this wet weather everyone would be sniffing and snuffling."

Jones gave her a discouraging look. "And what did the man on the phone want?" he asked Mrs.
Bisbee.

"He wouldn't tell me. He insisted on talking to Horatio. He told my husband he had important information about Ives' death, and asked to meet him right away on the old tunnel road back of the Laurence Harkness place. Horatio was quite excited about it. I tried to keep him from going, but he insisted. Somehow I was afraid. Oh, Lord!
Why didn't I keep him home?"

"The neighbor set the teapot hattily down on a table and flung her arms around the nearly hysterical Mrs. Bisbee. It was her turn to give the two men a hard look. "Now see what you've done!"

Jones backed uncomfortably toward the door, drawing Henry with him.

Outside, Henry's pent-up words broke forth. "Miss Wensley must have found something important in her letters—after she spoke to Mrs.
Bisbee about them. That's why she phoned at 5:30!"

Jones nodded. "Something that gave her a clue to the killer. Before Bisbee got a chance to help her, he was killed."

"It's shaping into a pattern that begins to make sense."

"We've got to question Miss Wensley again. We've got to learn what was in that letter she found."

"Marcia isn't likely to tell. The clue must point toward another member of the model railroad club.
Marcia wanted to confide the information in a friend she could trust—and ask him what to do about it. She might confide in another friend—but not in us."

"I'm going to have a try, anyway."

"Go ahead," said Henry. He suddenly realized how tired he was.
His hands on the umbrella were trembling. "I wish you luck, Mr.
Jones, but I've had enough of hysterical

THE BIG PUSH

JOHN D. Biggers, director of the production division of the OPM, reports considerable progress in armament. The monthly output of airplanes, he says, has been trebled, the output of tanks increased 600 percent, and powder production increased 1,000 percent. Various things of less importance are proceeding just as well. But there is no smug contentment among Mr. Biggers and his associates.

"I want to make it just as clear as possible," he says, "that we cannot for one moment be satisfied. One of the most dangerous things that could happen to this country today would be for our people, in any walk of life, to get the impression that the defense program is rolling along—that it will take care of itself."

This is the biggest and most important defense job ever tackled in human history. And every step of it will be up-hill work.

A COLLEGE CEREMONY

It is a matter of interest in two great countries when the leader of the British Empire, at the most critical moment in Britain's history, receives a degree from an American university in the city where his mother was born. This ceremony links in sentiment two nations already joined in a struggle to save modern civilization. The address of President Valentine and the response of Mr. Churchill were impressive.

"No need for us to offer comfort," said the college president, "for your bluff words cheer England and cheer us. No need to do you honor, for even time hastens to write high your name. No need to cry 'courage' to the sons of England. When Marlborough goes off to war, no one knows when he will come back, but we know he will not give up. Come the three quarters of the world in arms, and England shall shock them."

From Shakespeare the college president turned to Lincoln, saying: "We must dedicate ourselves to the great task that this government by the people shall not perish from the earth."

Then Churchill, in his response, held his head high and spoke of duty and unity. "Men and women are learning," he said, "that there are spirits, not animals. We shall all be proud to have been born at such a time, to permit us to do the service required. We stand the faithful guardians of the rights and dearest hopes of a dozen states and nations now gripped in servitude."

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles F. Stewart

PREMIER ANTONIO SALAZAR of Portugal very naturally teases State Secretary Hull persistently for information concerning Uncle Sam's plans relative to the Cape Verde and Azores islands, off the Iberian peninsula and West African coasts, opposite and pretty near to our West Indies and northeastern South America.

These are the footholds that are so much talked of as tremendous desiderata for the United States to occupy, thus beating the Axis to possession of 'em, as bases for control of the South Atlantic and maybe for future operations against our southern west-hemisphere continent, Panama and possibly our own Yankee mainland. Strategically they're of vast importance. There's no dispute about that. Equally important and also urged for American occupancy are the Canary islands, in the same oceanic neighborhood, and the port of Dakar, on the West African mainland.

The Canaries and Dakar, however, aren't Premier Salazar's headaches. The Canaries are Spain's and Dakar's French-owned. The Cape Verde and Azores, though, are Portuguese, and it's evident that worry over 'em keeps Senor Salazar the really is a dictator awake nights.

Hardly a day passes that some representative from his Washington legation isn't a caller at the state department, endeavoring to learn what were going to do.

Being sorry for these visitors Secretary Hull and his aides treat 'em in kindly fashion, but they don't get much enlightenment, for the simple reason that Uncle Sam's government hasn't yet made up its own mind—or, if it HAS semi-made it up, it still isn't quite sure.

A TOUGH SPOT

Meantime Premier Salazar is out on a limb. Now, it's a safe bet that the Portuguese, in principle, would be perfectly willing to have the United States navy or Britain's or both taking care of their islands. They can't do it themselves. They're not strong enough. And they certainly don't think that Uncle Samuel should be do some temporary occupying, would fall to hand their two insular groups back to 'em after the current emergency.

As for John Bull, he's been considerate of Portugal for generations. Portugal's a little peeve of a country at home, but it's got large colonial possessions—in Africa and off the China coast as well as the Cape Verde and the Azores. Plenty of other, stronger powers undoubtedly would have grabbed these colonies off long ago, but Mr. Bull, for some unknown reason of his own, didn't do it. Wouldn't permit anybody else to do so—and what he said went, since he was supreme at sea.

The Portuguese were grateful. They and the British traditionally are warm friends.

But, if the Axis gobbled those two island groups, Premier Salazar can't but feel sure that they'd be gone for good—also, presently, Portugal's African holdings, and

Don't use just a deck of cards. Also get out some paper and a pencil, so you may make and compile the facts you discover and then calculate chances for and against certain moves.

Suppose you have in the dummy a six-card suit headed by the A-Q-10, and wish to bring in every trick in the suit. The way you play depends on how many little ones you hold. Of course, if you have six, the side holds 12, so the K must drop under the A. But if you have five, and the first defender follows suit, you want to know whether to play the Q or the A. Lacking information to the contrary, the chances favor playing the A. At that stage, one defender has one less card than his partner, so the odds are 12 to 11, 11 to 10, 10 to 9, and so on, depending on how late in the play it occurs.

If you have four little ones, and the first defender plays small, your best play is the Q. After he follows, there are four ways the suit may be distributed—with the first man having only the small one, with him holding it and the J, it and the K or all three cards which belong to the opponents. With the first of these, you have a chance to catch the K, so forget that distribution. With the second, the A play will drop the singleton K, but will lose otherwise. With the last two, the Q play wins and the A play loses. Hence the chances are about 2 to 1 in favor of the finesse.

Carry this out to where you have three little ones, the defenders having four cards, and the Q play, followed on the next round by the A, is best against the eight possible distributions. After a small card has been played by the first opponent, if, however, you cut down your number of cards to two, so that the opponents then have five, you will do better in the long run by playing the 10 after the first defender follows suit, and finessing the Q the next time. The same applies also when you have only one card, the defenders consequently having six.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

MRS. BISBEE clutched the arms of her chair and half rose to her feet as she cried out, demanding to know why her husband had been murdered.

John Jones laid a soothing hand on one of her shoulders. "Mrs. Bisbee, don't excite yourself so! You must be brave. I know it is easier to say than do, but he would wish it that way."

She reached up and clutched his comforting hand tightly, so tightly that the knuckles of her own hand showed white. "You're right, I'll try. Are you from the police?"

"No," said Henry before Jones had a chance to answer. Henry didn't know what the big man would say, but he knew Mrs. Bisbee, and believed she might not talk as freely to the police as to neighbors she could trust. "We are investigating in a—private sort of way," he explained. "We are interested in getting at the truth."

Jones added, "We think your husband must have known who the murderer of John Ives was—that was why he was put out of the way."

"But I'm sure he knew nothing about the murder. In fact, he told me he thought it was suicide."

"That was before the attack on Mr. Spinelli last night?"

She sat up straighter. Her mind was trying desperately to push her grief to one side. "Yes, it was before," she admitted. "You think he changed his mind after that?"

Henry nodded. "He must have changed his mind. There was no doubt it was murder—after that."

"I didn't have a chance to speak with him. He'd only been home a few minutes and was still in the library—I'd already gone to bed—when the police arrived." She shuddered. "How could they possibly have thought..."

"Now, Mrs. Bisbee!" Jones reminded her. "Your husband was proven innocent—remember that. Don't let his arrest disturb you so. The police made a mistake, that was all."

The neighbor woman brought in the steaming tea. Mrs. Bisbee accepted a cupful and thanked her.

"We are here to help you," explained Jones. "Can you tell us exactly what happened this morning?"

She sipped the tea, shut her eyes for a moment and sat with tight lips. When she opened her eyes some of the horror had left them.

"It must have been about 3 o'clock that I got word," she began. "Someone from the sheriff's office telephoned that Horatio was being let out of the county jail. By that time I was almost hysterical. I'd been telephoning lawyers. I even got the district attorney out of bed.

"The reaction and relief were so great that I lay down on the couch in the library and cried. I suppose I fell asleep there. I didn't know when my husband got home. He thoughtfully spread a robe over me and let me sleep.

"The next I knew it was 5:30. He was pacing the library floor. He said he couldn't sleep.

"The telephone was ringing. I suppose that was what wakened me. I answered it because it was on a shelf beside the couch.

"It was Marcia Wensley. She said, 'Tell Professor Bisbee I must see him before he leaves for the college.'

"I asked her where and when, and she said, 'Ask him to stop by at my house at 7 o'clock.'

"That was all. She hung up. I told Horatio, and he just nodded, mumbled something, and kept on pacing back and forth. I saw he was worried—studying something over in his mind."

Jones interrupted. "Didn't it seem strange to you that Miss Wensley would telephone so early in the morning? People don't usually telephone their friends at 5:30."

Mrs. Bisbee's eyes widened a bit. "No, to tell the truth I was too upset to think of that. Now that you mention it, it does seem strange, doesn't it?"

"And how do you suppose Miss Wensley knew that your husband was out of jail?"

"She telephoned me earlier in the night and promised to keep her short wave radio receiver tuned in to the police broadcasts and let me know if there was any news. In fact, she called me only a few minutes after the officers did, to let me know Horatio was free."

"Did she have anything else to say at that time?"

"She said she had been sitting up, going through copies of old correspondence she had kept from the time she worked for Ives and King, to see if she could find anything that would indicate if anyone had any reason to kill Mr. Ives."

"Ah!" exclaimed Henry. "That's what..."

Jones stepped on his foot. "She said she hadn't found anything," Mrs. Bisbee continued. Jones reminded the distressed widow, "You spoke of another telephone call—a man's voice, later in the morning. Did you answer that call also?"

"Yes, it came only a moment after Miss Wensley's call at 5:30. The voice was very hard to understand. It rasped on my ears unpleasantly. I knew it was a man, and someone I had never heard before."

Henry suggested, "Maybe the voice was disguised."

"Possibly, although he sounded more like he had a bad cold."

The woman with the teapot spoke up for the first time. She had been listening avidly. "Not many colds going around now. Most people catch 'em in the spring. You'd think in this wet weather everyone would be sniffing and snuffling."

Jones gave her a discouraging look. "And what did the man on the phone want?" he asked Mrs. Bisbee.

"He wouldn't tell me. He insisted on talking to Horatio. He told my husband he had important information about Ives' death, and asked to meet him right away on the old tunnel road back of the Laurence Harkness place. Horatio was quite excited about it. I tried to keep him from going, but he insisted. Somehow I was afraid. I felt something would happen. Oh, Lord! Why didn't I keep him home?"

The neighbor set the teapot hastily down on a table and flung her arms around the nearly hysterical Mrs. Bisbee. It was her turn to give the two men a hard look. "Now see what you've done!"

Jones backed uncomfortably toward the door, drawing Henry with him. Outside, Henry's pent-up words broke forth. "Miss Wensley must have found something important in her letters—after she spoke to Mrs. Bisbee about them. That's why she phoned at 5:30!"

Jones nodded. "Something that gave her a clue to the killer. Before Bisbee got a chance to help her, he was killed."

"It's shaping into a pattern that begins to make sense."

"We've got to question Miss Wensley again. We've got to learn what was in that letter she found."

"Marcia isn't likely to tell. The clue must point toward another member of the model railroad club. Marcia wanted to confide the information in a friend she could trust—and ask him what to do about it. She might confide in another friend—but not in us."

"I'm going to have a try, anyway."

"Go ahead," said Henry. He suddenly realized how tired he was. His hands on the umbrella were trembling. "I wish you luck, Mr. Jones, but I've had enough of hysterical women for this morning."

GERMAN, SOVIET FIGHT RUMORED

the glorious, determined frontier guards (of the Soviet Union) and advanced outposts of a certain power trying to thrust its way to Kamenetz and Podolski.

"Up to last evening the attack was being victoriously repulsed. "Jackal contingents (presumably this was a reference to Romanian forces) are nosing their way behind the sponsors of the Bessarabian reconquest. . . .

"The Soviet is in danger of its very life and will have to fight to preserve 20 years of victorious socialist building."

Inquiries into the best informed sources regarding the why and wherefore of this unparalleled situation met with varying explanations.

One theory accepted as fact by many quarters was that Germany—determined to obtain food and oil supplies from Russia—had served an ultimatum on Moscow demanding cession of Bessarabia. This ultimatum was said to expire on Sunday night.

Another report widely circulated said that the German-Turkish treaty, despite announcements to the contrary, actually contained a secret clause providing for passage of German troops into Syria. One British agent reported to Whitehall that Nazi troop movements into Turkey started from Varna and Burgas less than two hours after the pact was signed.

Assistance Necessary
London newspapers had a veritable Roman holiday in speculating on the possibility and effects of a Russo-German armed clash.

The Evening Standard, owned by Lord Beaverbrook, minister of state, suggested that Britain should give Russia all the assistance in her power in such a struggle "if Washington could be persuaded to make a similar promise."

Military experts paraded out their best opinions, with the majority believing Germany could defeat Russia within a month "in view of the known defects of the Soviet military machine and the lack of skilled officers."

Today the British Press Association, quoting authoritative British quarters, said there was no confirmation of reports that Romania and Germany have launched military operations against Russia or that they have presented an ultimatum to Russia.

The agency added that the rumors—all totally unconfirmed—for the most part originated yesterday in Ankara and Istanbul. It added:

"The fact that the rumors have been circulating continuously in Turkey for the last 17 hours, with not a word of confirmation received from any part of the world, should cause the rumors to be treated with the utmost reserve."

(Editor's Note: Winston Burdett CBS correspondent in Turkey, reported in a broadcast from Ankara that various commercial radios in Turkey have picked up "unspecified and uncredited reports" that Germany attacked Russia at 15 points along the frontier after Romania demanded return of Bessarabia from the Soviet Union. He stressed that the reports were entirely without confirmation.)

Ultimatum Claimed
(Martin Agronsky, NBC Ankara representative, radioed his home office that Germany had served an ultimatum on Russia. But he branded as "untrue" the report that Germany actually had invaded Russian territory.)

As the day progressed the Turkish reports of apparently imaginary Russo-German strife took on added color, like a rolling snowball gathering weight.

One of these Turkish rumors claimed the Romanian passenger liner Rogele Carol and Dacia have been converted into armed auxiliary cruisers for use in the "occasional action for recovery of Bessarabia from Russia."

A Stockholm dispatch to the London Daily Mail said it was reported that Finland was prepared to meet any eventualities and that the streets of Helsinki were crowded with uniformed men and women.

(Editor's Note: The official German news agency DNB reported from Helsinki an official announcement that the Finnish government had called up all reserves for "extraordinary maneuvers for the purposes of protecting security and strengthening defenses.")

The Mail said that plans for

The Helsinki correspondent of the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter was quoted as saying that the Finns contended it was impossible to collaborate with Russia for common defense and that the Finns are "definitely coming down on the German side of the fence."

The London Daily Herald reported from Ankara that a spokesman for the German embassy there declared:

"All signs point to war with Russia, but we hope to obtain major concessions without actual fighting."

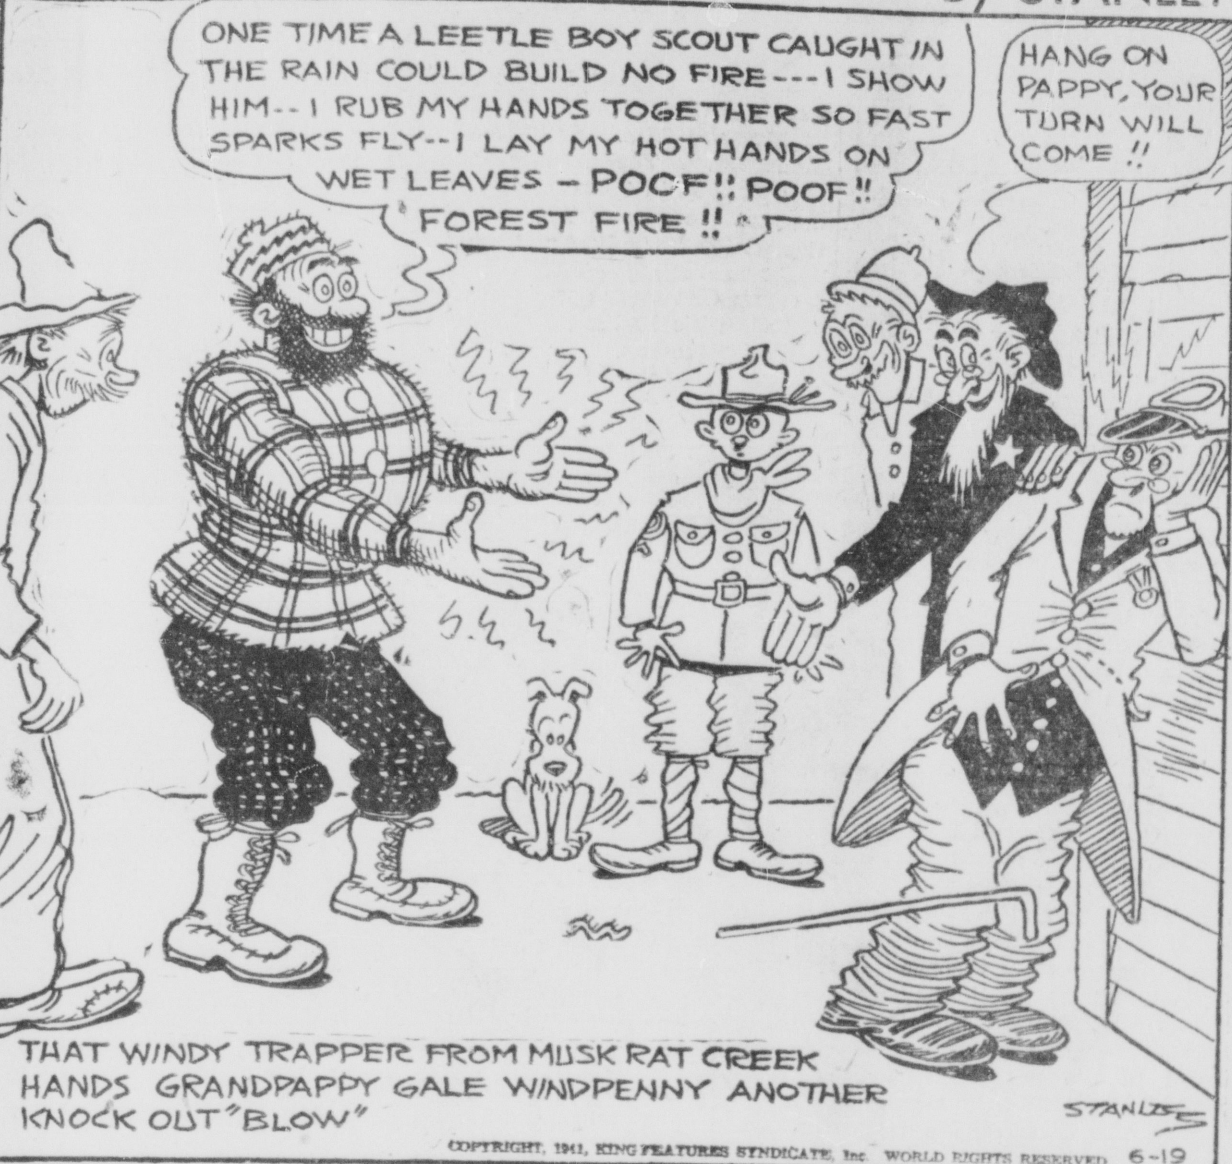

The Mail, in an undated and uncredited story, quoted the Berlin correspondent of the Tribune De Geneva as reporting that Soviet troops already have blown up strategic bridges along the Russo-Finnish border.

LABOR TROUBLE BREAKS OUT AT PLANE FACTORY

COLUMBUS, June 19—Tie-up of the huge new Curtiss-Wright airplane plant in Columbus was threatened today as union electrical workers walked out in a dispute over installation of telephones by non-union labor.

Reports were that other trades unions might walk out in sympathy at the partly completed plant. A few departments are operating. Workmen said that about 150 members of Electrical Workers Local No. 683, (FL) had quit their posts, contending the phones should be installed by Union labor.

The Ohio Bell Telephone company has its own crews of specially trained telephone workers, which it has always used for installations and contends they should be used in the work.

A. Z. Larson, business agent for the union, would not say how many of his men were out, but added:

"Some of our men have left the job, yes. But we won't have anything to announce until later in the day. I must talk to some of the boys first."

LABOR TROUBLE BREAKS OUT AT PLANE FACTORY

COLUMBUS, June 19—Tie-up of the huge new Curtiss-Wright airplane plant in Columbus was threatened today as union electrical workers walked out in a dispute over installation of telephones by non-union labor.

Reports were that other trades unions might walk out in sympathy at the partly completed plant.

A few departments are operating. Workmen said that about 150 members of Electrical Workers Local No. 683, (FL) had quit their posts, contending the phones should be installed by Union labor.

The Ohio Bell Telephone company has its own crews of specially trained telephone workers, which it has always used for installations and contends they should be used in the work.

A. Z. Larson, business agent for the union, would not say how many of his men were out, but added:

KENTUCKIAN, 35, ADMITS MAKING SPURIOUS CASH

Everet Hall, 35, Soldier, Ky., whose counterfeiting equipment was found in a woodshed on Hayward Avenue, Tuesday, by secret service men and local officers, has pleaded guilty to having passed 11 counterfeit fifty-cent pieces and is being held at Scioto County Jail in default of $2,000 bond.

Hall was arraigned by Secret Service Agent E. H. Huntington, Cincinnati, who testified that Hall had made fifty-cent pieces in Circleville. He is being held for federal district grand jury by J. Julian Snyder, United States commissioner.

Hall's counterfeiting equipment, including an iron ladle, several pieces of habbitt and broken plaster half-dollar coin molds, was found in a shed near the residence of Albert Wilkins, 176 Hayward Avenue, at whose home Hall had stayed until early this week. The equipment was discovered by Secret Service Agents Mr. Huntington and John E. Murphy of Columbus and Police Chief William McCrady and Deputy Sheriff Earl Weaver.

Hall was arrested by local authorities on charges of having picked the pocket of Charles Ramsey, Long Street, of $9 and was released from County Jail after he had signed his own $200 bond.

Local officers said that Hall was a cousin of Mr. Wilkins, but that Wilkins knew nothing about the counterfeiting scheme.

PIGEON CARRYING TWO NUMBERS CAUGHT HERE

A pigeon wearing two leg bands, one carrying the number 300 and the other the number 1,547-A. E. stopped Thursday at the R. L. Rowe residence in Jackson Township.

The bird, apparently lost, flew down near the porch of the house and was so tame that Mr. Rowe was able to catch it. Mr. Rowe notified Sheriff Charles Radcliff of the incident and the sheriff said the bird may be one of those being trained by the War Department for messenger service.

ARRESTS 'EASTER RABBIT'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., —Police officer L. M. Cline, who loves children, indignantly denies that he is interfering with one of childhood's happiest experiences just because he arrested an "Easter rabbit."

The prisoner was carrying a basket of Easter Eggs and told the officer he was just a little Easter rabbit, celebrating Easter early. He was booked for drunkenness.

'RED' RADIO

voice, issued this call to arms: "The Soviet is in danger of its very life and will have to fight to preserve 20 years of victorious Socialist building."

"Temporizing" Scored

This same radio station attacked the "temporizing" policies of Moscow. The announcer asserted that Moscow thinks that by "handing over the hen it is making the cow safe, but the time for parleys and appeasement is past."

The Tiflis announcement spun across Europe's air waves as the new war of nerves involving Soviet Russia kept the Moscow and Helsinki radio stations busy with sensational broadcasts.

Both of these broadcasts were picked up in London, seemed designed to promote friction between Russia and Germany, although the Helsinki broadcast was not completed but was cut off abruptly as sounds of a scuffle and angry voices cut short a denunciation of Russia.

The Moscow broadcast, in the Russian language, took Turkey sharply to task for signing a pact of amity with Germany.

The Helsinki announcer was heard declaring:

"The day of liberation is at hand. The sorrow of the Finnish campaign (the Russo-Finnish war) in which our heroic country succumbed to brutal numbers is about to be wiped away. We may look forward confidently."

"The hand which gave Finland liberty (a reference to Germany's terms to Russia under the treaty of Brest-Litovsk after Russia's World War defeat) is again raised to help Finland."

At this point the announcer's voice was drowned out by a disturbance, the sound of angry voices and a scuffle, evidently in the broadcasting studio. The broadcast halted abruptly.

The Moscow radio's Russian language broadcast referred to a report that "incidents may have happened on the Bessarabian borders caused by the intrigues of traitors."

Turkey Also Scored

The broadcast included an attack on Russia's "former friend," Turkey, for "signing a so-called friendship treaty which completes the subjugation of the Balkans to the interests of an inimical Socialism (an evident reference to National Socialism) and thus takes responsibility for further spreading the war."

The Moscow radio also referred to the dire danger of the Russian fatherland owing to the "intrigue of cunning neighbors" but said the mighty Red fleet is ready for any emergency.

HARRY SHORT STRICKEN; IMPROVEMENT IS NOTED

Harry Short, Circleville native and brother of Auditor Forrest Short, is somewhat improved in White Cross Hospital, Columbus, where he was taken Wednesday afternoon after he suffered a stroke at his home in Columbus.

Mr. Short, a prominent horseman, figured in a track accident about 10 days ago and was bruised somewhat. He suffered the stroke at 2 o'clock Wednesday and did not regain consciousness until early Thursday.

His brother, who went to the hospital immediately, informed friends in Circleville that Harry was improving Thursday.

BOARD RECEIVES ADVANCE NOTICE FOR THREE MEN

Local draft officials Thursday received an advance notice from state selective service headquarters, calling for three men on the period beginning July 3. The date for the call is expected to be set a few days later when the official call is received.

Eight men already are scheduled to leave July 3 for the induction station at Fort Hayes, Columbus. The county's next contingent, 16 men, will be sent into service next Thursday.

Local officials have completed arrangements for registration of those young men of the county who have reached 21 years of age since last October 16. Registration cards for the registration are practically the same as those used last October. Selective Service officials said, except that the cards are pink instead of white. Local officials believe the new registration will affect about 150 young men in the county. The registration, to be conducted by the draft board, will be held in the Common Pleas Court Room at the Court House.

DYKSTRA QUILTS DEFENSE JOB IN NOTE TO F. D. R.

WASHINGTON, June 19—Clarence A. Dykstra today tendered his resignation to President Roosevelt as chairman of the National Defense Mediation Board effective July 1.

Dykstra, who is president of the University of Wisconsin, explained that when he came to Washington last fall it was with the understanding that he could spend half of his time in Madison, Wis. He reported to the President that his Washington tasks had proven to be a 100 percent job and said the university was pressing him to return.

CINCINNATI, WITH VANDY HURLING, LOSES 4-2 GAME

CINCINNATI, June 19.—The Cincinnati Reds today considered what they could do to eliminate a first inning jinx that seems to be following them around.

Battling the Boston Braves under the lights at Crosley Field last night, the Reds allowed the Braves to score twice in the opening inning and maintain the lead the rest of the nine innings to wind up behind a 4 to 2 score.

Johnny Vander Meer, of no-hit fame, hurled for the world champions and allowed the Braves only seven hits but Rookie Alva Javery duplicated his feat for the Braves. Vander Meer struck out seven and walked three while his opponent was striking out two and walking two.

Eddie Joost was the leading swatter for the Redlegs, getting two singles. Lonnie Frey connected for a triple and Billy Werber for a double.

The Reds were not scheduled today.

Lethal Punch Comes In Thirteenth Round Of Great Battle; Youngster Ahead When End Comes; Champion Plans To Rest

By Jack Mahon

NEW YORK, June 19.—Two tiny seconds—the difference between a gasp and a sigh—and a punch that traveled less than a foot, broke the heart of a gallant Irish kid named Billy Conn last night, burst the boxing world into flames and forced Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis into retirement until September.

With the crown of his dreams settling on his handsome, curly head, Billy the Kid ran into one right hand, fired by a desperate, losing champion, was battered for almost half a minute then fell, for the first and last time, just 12 seconds before the bell ended the thirteenth round of a dazzling, dime novel fight.

The fatal ten was tolled off. Two seconds more would have saved Conn. The hour glass was running for Pal Joey, however, and it saved his title. And not too long after the tired champion and his courageous challenger had trailed through a screaming crowd of 54,487 fans to the dressing room, Julian Black, one of Louis' managers, announced Joe "definitely needed a rest and would not fight again until September." John Roxborough, Joe's other brain-truster, confirmed this. He said the champ would probably fight Lou Nova in the fall as planned and that Conn would probably be put "on ice" until next June.

Joe was slated to meet Abe Simon in a return bout here next month and then take Nova in September. Last night's nightmare for the champion and his managers, however, changed all that. The Bum of the Month Campaign is at an end.

Nova To Be Next

"Joe was much too fine," said Roxborough. "He's been fighting too much and needs a rest. He definitely will not fight again until September. We haven't signed for anyone yet but Nova will probably get the fight." Asked about a Conn return, John said "sure we'll fight him again but probably not till next June."

Louis was his usual honest, frank self and had no excuses. He talked as he fights—like a champion.

"How do you think it would go in a return?" he was asked.

"He might beat me," answered Joe without a second's hesitation. Joe said the fight ended just as he thought it would. "I figured he would lose his head when I caught him and he did," explained the Bomber. "I didn't think it would take so long though. He's not the best fighter I ever fought but he is the smartest and takes care of himself better. He's much faster than I am and hits faster, too."

Louis said a missed left hook by Conn gave him the opening he needed in the thirteenth round. "I caught him with a right to the chin, then," said Joe. "After that I knew I had him. My managers told me at the end of the twelfth that I had to knock him out to win and I knew it and I did. I was way behind."

Joe wasn't just whistling when he made that crack either. If he didn't nail Conn with that one chiller, the 23-year-old kid who laughed at the lightning would be dressed in the royal purple this afternoon. Conn, who had won six rounds and lost as many on our card before the fatal thirteenth, had the title right in his arms.

Billy had won his rounds by a big margin, had stolen the fight right from under the champion's nose from the eighth round on and would have won except for that chop on the lug.

"Stay away from him Billy, stay away," screamed little Johnny Ray, the pasty faced mite who lifted Bill out of obscurity for his gamble at glory. And Conn did, almost all the way.

All but flattened in the very first two rounds, Conn began beating Joe to the punch, roughing him up and outfighting him in close to win the third and fourth frames and from then to the finish it was a thrill-packed battle all the way.

His teeth bared in a snarl of derision, his blood dripping down his sweating face, Billy banged Louis with both hands in a desperate rally which swept the eighth and ninth frames and showed very decisively the fight was far from over, although Louis had been coming on.

Louis Holds On

Conn slipped to the floor on a wet spot near his own corner in the tenth and Louis sportingly allowed him to regain his balance. Joe won this round by a shade but Billy the Kid came back in the eleventh, ripped rights and lefts to Louis' stomach and had the champion holding on at the bell.

Then Conn went crazy in the twelfth. He caught Joe with lefts and rights to the head, took a hard right to the head and when he realized he had tasted the thunder and liked it—came back for more. He came back with punches to the head that staggered Louis.

The champion was hurt. Conn and the crowd knew it and the Polo Grounds became an open air madhouse. Joe must have taken

He sank in his exhaustion right in front of us and instinctively we grabbed at our watch. For one desperate moment as the time-keeper started to pound on the ring apron we thought luck was with Billy, that the bell might save him. But there were exactly twelve seconds left.

Ten for the champion—two to break the heart of a boy with a dream.

ILLINOIS YOUTH STARS IN BIG TEN GOLF MEET

CHICAGO, June 19.—Slender John Holmstrom, University of Illinois junior, led the race for individual honors today at the halfway mark of the 22nd Big Ten golf tournament, and the low scores of two of his three teammates also put Illinois into the lead for the team crown.

After 36 holes of play, with 36 more to be played today, Holmstrom topped the field of 50 starters from the ten conference schools with a score of 74-73—147, three over par for the Mill Road Farm course.

A stroke behind Holmstrom came the Illinois captain, Alex Welsh, and Ben Smith, brilliant Michigan sophomore, each with 148. Next was Dick Wolfley of Illinois, with 150.

Other low scorers for 36 holes included Bill Gilbert, Ohio State, 154; Mel Sulser, Ohio State, 158. Illinois led the teams with an aggregate of 606 strokes, followed by Ohio State with 634; Michigan, 637; Wisconsin, 639; Northwestern, 644; Minnesota, 646; Indiana, 654; Iowa, Purdue, 669, and Chicago 731.

WHITE SOX HILL STAR READY TO JOIN ARMY

CHICAGO, June 19.—Long John Rigney, pitching mainstay of the Chicago White Sox, trades his baseball uniform tomorrow for one provided by Uncle Sam.

"I'm ready to go," Rigney said today. "I think I'll like it in the army. I hope to get a chance to do some pitching during my year, because my arm is in good condition now and I'd like to keep it that way."

Rigney will report to his induction center at 7 a. m. With him in the group of 56 draftees will be his brother, Edward, an accountant.

Lou Nova, With Heavier Punch, Has Title Chance

By Edward W. Cochrane

NEW YORK, June 19.—A tall college man, physically resembling the character in Jack London's famous story, "The Abysmal Brute," sat with friends after the Louis-Conn fight last night and said:

"Yes, I can beat Louis. I can take his punches and can hit hard enough to knock him out. He has defended the heavyweight championship of the world successfully for the last time."

It is commendable that the next challenger for the crown is confident. But I am not so sure that he will be able to fulfill his promises. It is going to take a man with some defense and plenty of power to beat Louis, or one who runs and stabs and wins on points in what might be a very uninteresting battle, like the first one with Bob Pastor and the one with Tommy Farr, the British punching bag.

Nova has some of the equipment of Conn. He is game, tough, and young. He hasn't Conn's cleverness. His defense is not as good as Billy's. But he has two assets that Conn lacks. He can hit with terrific force and he is fully as large as the champion.

They meet in three months. In the meantime the challenger will spend his time in the mountains in upper New York State and he will train at Speculator, that isolated camp in the mountains near Lake Placid, where Max Schmeling trained for his last fight with Louis, which he lost in the first round.

The champion is going to take a rest from the training grind on which he has been since last November and start hard training again in mid-August. His "bum of the month" program tired him out some. He is a little weary of the grind and showed it last night.

BLUES TAKE TOP SPOT; MILLERS LOSE TO TOLEDO

COLUMBUS, June 19.—The American Association pennant race was just as jumbled as ever today, only one and one-half games separating the first and fourth place clubs and the fourth place Toledo Mud Hens only two and one-half games further back.

Kansas City took over the top position as Rugger Ardizzone became the third Blues pitcher in the last four games to score a shutout. He allowed Louisville seven scattered hits as Kansas City defeated the Colonels, 4 to 0.

Minneapolis, meanwhile, was dropping out of first place by losing to the Toledo Mudhens in another shut out performance. Southpaw Frank Biscan allowed the Mud Hens got 10 off three hurlers for a 7 to 0 win.

Columbus gained a half-game on the top position by taking an 8 to 4 decision from St. Paul. Muray Dickson outlasted Saint hurlers Dick Lananhan and Mearl Strahan to gain the decision. Each club collected 11 hits and the Red Birds made four errors to the Saints one. However, Columbus left only six men on base to the Saints 13.

In the other league tilt, Indianapolis opened a three-game stand at Milwaukee by walloping the cellar-dwellers, 8 to 3. Ray Starr got credit for the victory.

HOLLAND COACH WINS NEW JOB AT TIPP CITY

Donald Ritenour To Direct Basketball, Assist In Grid Sport

Donald V. Ritenour, coach of New Holland athletics for the last several years, was employed Wednesday night by the Tipp City, Miami County, board of education as head basketball and assistant football coach, and a teacher of science and mathematics in the high school.

Ritenour resigned several weeks ago from his New Holland post where his teams made almost a clean sweep of Pickaway County interscholastic competition during the year. His boys won the county basketball tournament and the county baseball title, and girls and boys combined to win the track and field event.

Ritenour is a former coach at Perry Township school.

Tipp City has 300 pupils in the high school.

Ritenour will be assistant to Paul Feinere of Dayton in football, the grid mentor being employed also Wednesday evening.

To date, no announcement has been made concerning election of Ritenour's successor at New Holland.

PROMOTOR SAYS BILL CONN WILL BE NEXT CHAMP

NEW YORK, June 19.—He was battered and bloody and trying hard to smile as he sat in his dressing room right after the fight last night. Then Billy Conn looked up, just as Promoter Mike Jacobs fought his way through the mob. Rushing over to the handsome hero in defeat, Jacobs threw his arms around Billy, kissed him, twice on his bruised cheek and whispered: "You're the next champion, Billy, you're the next champion."

Mike whispered a few other things in Billy's ear, too, but he wouldn't reveal what. "Might have something to say tomorrow," was all he would say.

Conn took his sudden, startling knock-out gallantly.

"I tried, fellows, didn't I?" he said as he wiped the blood and the sweat from his torn right eye.

"I didn't quit, did I?"

Assured by the wave of reporters which soon engulfed him that he had put on a terrific show, Billy began to smile.

"Well, what happened, did you lose your temper?" they asked from all sides.

"Yeah, lost my head and the title went with it," answered Billy promptly.

He didn't say anything for a minute and there was a sudden silence. The newspapermen, strangely enough, were also at a loss for words. Then Billy looked up and said:

"Will you guys give me another chance. I'd like to fight him again."

How do you think the boys answered him?

LOUIS, CONN TO DIVIDE BIG POT OF $340,000

NEW YORK, June 19.—Based on the unofficial gross gate of $450,000 announced by the 20th Century Sporting Club, Billy Conn and Joe Louis will split about $340,000 for their heavy-weight title fight which thrilled 54,487 fans at the Polo Grounds here last night.

Conn received 20 percent and Louis 40 percent of the gross gate which would give the challenger in the neighborhood of $80,000, with tax deducted and the champion about double that, $160,000 for his efforts.

CINCINNATI, WITH VANDY HURLING, LOSES 4-2 GAME

CINCINNATI, June 19—The Cincinnati Reds today considered what they could do to eliminate a first inning jinx that seems to be following them around.

Battling the Boston Braves under the lights at Crosley Field last night, the Reds allowed the Braves to score twice in the opening inning and maintain the lead the rest of the nine innings to wind up behind a 4 to 2 score.

Johnny Vander Meer, of no-hit fame, hurled for the world champions and allowed the Braves only seven hits but Rookie Alva Javery duplicated his feat for the Braves. Vander Meer struck out seven and walked three while his opponent was striking out two and walking two.

Eddie Joost was the leading swatter for the Redlegs, getting two singles. Lonnie Frey connected for a triple and Billy Werber for a double.

STRICTLY AMATEUR

The recent I. C. 4-A track and field games were so strictly amateur that Leslie MacMittell, New York University's star miler, had to purchase two tickets for personal use.

Lethal Punch Comes In Thirteenth Round Of Great Battle; Youngster Ahead When End Comes; Champion Plans To Rest

NEW YORK, June 19—Two tiny seconds—the difference between a gasp and a sigh—and a punch that traveled less than a foot, broke the heart of a gallant Irish kid named Billy Conn last night, burst the boxing world into flames and forced Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis into retirement until September.

With the crown of his dreams settling on his handsome, curly head, Billy the Kid ran into one right hand, fired by a desperate, losing champion, was battered for almost half a minute then fell, for the first and last time, just 12 seconds before the bell ended the thirteenth round of a dazzling, dime novel fight.

The fatal ten was tolled off. Two seconds more would have saved Conn. The hour glass was running for Pal Joey, however, and it saved his title. And not too long after the tired champion and his courageous challenger had trailed through a screaming crowd of 54,487 fans to the dressing room, Julian Black, one of Louis' managers, announced Joe "definitely needed a rest and would not fight again until September." John Roxborough, Joe's other brain-truster, confirmed this. He said the champ would probably fight Lou Nova in the fall as planned and that Conn would probably be put "on ice" until next June.

Joe was slated to meet Abe Simon in a return bout here next month and then take Nova in September. Last night's nightmare for the champion and his managers, however, changed all that. The Bum of the Month Campaign is at an end.

Nova To Be Next

"Joe was much too fine," said Roxborough. "He's been fighting too much and needs a rest. He definitely will not fight again until September. We haven't signed for anyone yet but Nova will probably get the fight." Asked about a Conn return, John said "sure we'll fight him again but probably not till next June."

Louis was his usual honest, frank self and had no excuses. He talked as he fights—like a champion.

"How do you think it would go in a return?" he was asked.

"He might beat me," answered Joe without a second's hesitation. Joe said the fight ended just as he thought it would. "I figured he would lose his head when I caught him and he did," explained the Bomber. "I didn't think it would take so long though. He's not the best fighter I ever fought but he is the smartest and takes care of himself better. He's much faster than I am and hits faster, too."

Louis said a missed left hook by Conn gave him the opening he needed in the thirteenth round. "I caught him with a right to the chin, then," said Joe. "After that I knew I had him. My managers told me at the end of the twelfth that I had to knock him out to win and I knew it and I did. I was way way behind."

Joe wasn't just whistling when he made that crack either. If he didn't nail Conn with that one chiller, the 23-year-old kid who laughed at the lightning would be dressed in the royal purple this afternoon. Conn, who had won six rounds and lost as many on our card before the fatal thirteenth, had the title right in his arms.

Billy had won his rounds by a big margin, had stolen the fight right from under the champion's nose from the eighth round on and would have won except for that chop on the lug.

"Stay away from him Billy, stay away," screamed little Johnny Ray, the pasty faced mite who lifted Bill out of obscurity for his gamble at glory. And Conn did, almost all the way.

All but flattened in the very first two rounds, Conn began beating Joe to the punch, roughing him up and outfighting him in close to win the third and fourth frames and from then to the finish it was a thrill-packed battle all the way.

His teeth bared in a snarl of derision, his blood dripping down his sweating face, Billy banged Louis with both hands in a desperate rally which swept the eighth and ninth frames and showed very decisively the fight was far from over, although Louis had been coming on.

Louis Holds On

Conn slipped to the floor on a wet spot near his own corner in the tenth and Louis sportingly allowed him to regain his balance. Joe won this round by a shade but Billy the Kid came back in the eleventh, ripped rights and lefts to Louis' stomach and had the champion holding on at the bell.

Then Conn went crazy in the twelfth. He caught Joe with lefts and rights to the head, took a hard right to the head and when he realized he had tasted the thunder and liked it—came back for more. He came back with punches to the head that staggered Louis.

The champion was hurt. Conn and the crowd knew it and the Polo Grounds became an open air madhouse. Joe must have taken

By Edward W. Cochrane

NEW YORK, June 19—A tall college man, physically resembling the character in Jack London's famous story, "The Abysmal Brute," sat with friends after the Louis-Conn fight last night and said:

"Yes, I can beat Louis. I can take his punches and can hit hard enough to knock him out. He has defended the heavyweight championship of the world successfully for the last time."

BLUES TAKE TOP SPOT; MILLERS LOSE TO TOLEDO

COLUMBUS, June 19—The American Association pennant race was just as jumbled as ever today, only one and one-half games separating the first and fourth place clubs and the fourth-place Toledo Mud Hens only two and one-half games further back.

Kansas City took over the top position as Rugger Ardizzone became the third Blues pitcher in the last four games to score a shutout. He allowed Louisville seven scattered hits as Kansas City defeated the Colonels, 4 to 0.

Minneapolis, meanwhile, was dropping out of first place by losing to the Toledo Mud Hens in another shut out performance. South-paw Frank Biscan allowed the Millers only three safeties as the Mud Hens got 10 off three hurlers for a 7 to 0 win.

Columbus gained a half-game on the top position by taking an 8 to 4 decision from St. Paul. Murray Dickson outlasted Saint hurlers Dick Lananah and Mearl Strahan to gain the decision. Each club collected 11 hits and the Red Birds made four errors to the Saints one. However, Columbus left only six men on base to the Saints 13.

In the other league tilt, Indianapolis opened a three-game stand at Milwaukee by walloping the cellar-dwellers, 8 to 3. Ray Starr got credit for the victory.

NEW ORDINANCE CALLS FOR 30-DEGREE PARKING, USE OF METERS

COUNCIL HEARS SUGGESTIONS OF COMMITTEE

Meeting Next Week To Be Devoted To Discussion Of Legislation

REGULATIONS SET UP

Restricted Zone To Cover Larger Territory In Downtown Area

With virtually no discussion, City Council Wednesday night postponed action on its parking ordinance for at least another week when, after it had heard the ordinance read, voted to consider it at a meeting next Wednesday night.

Council's decision to delay action on the four page ordinance came late in the council session after other business had been considered and after the ordinance had been read by Council Clerk Fred R. Nicholas. Councilman Frank Lynch moved that the matter be discussed at a committee meeting of the whole and his motion was adopted without a dissenting vote.

The ordinance, as prepared by the council safety committee, provides for thirty degree parking and parking meters in the downtown section. It sets up as parking meter zones, Court Street from Pinckney and Watt to the first alley south of Franklin Street, Main Street from Scioto Street to the first alley east of Court and Franklin Street from Court Street to the first alley east of Court Street.

According to the ordinance, parking meters would be used on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. and on Saturdays from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m. Meters would not be used on Sundays or holidays. The thirty degree parking system would be set up on Main Street from Western Avenue to the first alley east of Washington Street and on Court Street from Mound Street to High Street.

Loading Permitted
Commercial trucks would be given the privilege of parking in the parking zones for ten minutes to load and unload merchandise.
The ordinance sets up penalties of $1 fines for overtime parkers in the meter zones.
The thirty degree angle system

with meters came as a proposed compromise between those who recommended parallel parking with meters and those who were in favor of the forty-five degree system without meters.

The ordinance, as set before Council Wednesday night, made no mention of the number of meters that might be needed and although several representatives were at the council meeting, none was heard on the council floor. It is not expected that Council will take official action on the ordinance before July 2, its next regular meeting, since the meeting next Wednesday night is only a committee meeting of the whole, called to enable councilmen to discuss the measure.

Passage of the ordinance at the July 2 meeting would mean that the city would have a definite parking program sometime in August, since under the emergency clause, thirty days must elapse before the ordinance may become effective.

WATER SUPPLY QUESTION AIRED

Extension Of Lines Into One Section, Brings Plea For Other Areas

A resolution authorizing the Ohio Water Service Company to install a water line on North Pickaway Street and on Reber Avenue was sent to Council's service committee Wednesday night for further consideration.

The resolution brought before Council the problem of extending water lines into other sections of the city where residents are in need of water and councilmen believed further time was required to study the question.

The resolution gives the water company authority to install 1,300 feet of 8-inch cast iron pipe on North Pickaway Street from High Street to Pleasant Street and to install fire hydrants on High Street and Pleasant Street.

Section two of the resolution authorizes the water company to install 300 feet of 6 inch pipe on Reber Avenue from the fire hydrant on the street to Atwater Avenue. One fire hydrant would be installed on North Pickaway Street north of the Hargus Creek bridge.

Expense of installing additional fire hydrants checked council's immediate action on the matter. Councilman B. H. Gordon told his colleagues that residents on Weldon Avenue and Clinton Street also were badly in need of a water supply, many of them having to carry water from other residences.

CHANGES IN AGE LIMITS FOR CITY POLICE SOUGHT

Harry Bartholomew, secretary of the Civil Service Commission, appeared before Council Wednesday night recommending that age limits for city patrolmen be widened to 21 to 45 years. Present requirements are 24 to 38 years.

Scarcity of men available for patrolman duty makes it difficult to get applicants to fill eligibility lists. Mr. Bartholomew said.

The matter was referred to the safety committee.

LITTLE THEATRE UNIT PREPARES TO START WORK

Under the direction of Samuel R. Johnson, who was assisted by Miss Ruth Stout, the Children's Little Theatre held its first meeting in Memorial Hall, Wednesday. The purpose of this preliminary meeting was to enroll children who had indicated their desire to join the club.

The members that have enrolled are:

Group I — Anna Marie Workman, Ann Curtin, Ann Snider, Florence Bowers, Jack Stout, Emily and Evelyn Lutz, Maxine Hetzler, Ruth Workman, Eleanor Mast, Charles Will, James Eitel, Charlotte Thomas, Glenn McCoy, Hilda Rhoads, Anna Ruth Defenbaugh and Harold Green.

Group II—Dee Early, Robert McAllister, J. I. Smith, III, Jacqueline Smith, Ruth Troutman, Patricia Sue Brown, Lannie Given, Warren Carl Leist, Nancy Ann Sensenbrenner, Nancy Watt, Robert Workman, Norma Ruth Howard and Barbara Green.

The children were arranged in groups according to their ages. Group I is comprised of children whose ages range from 12 to 15. Group II has a group of children whose ages range from six to 10.

The clubs will not begin their constructive work for at least a week so that other children who have not as yet joined may do so without losing any of the foundation work.

Miss Ruth Stout, who is well known in the city for her outstanding work with young people in such organizations as the Girl Scouts, will be the assistant director of Group I. The assistant director of Group II will be Miss Marilyn Lutz, a student of dramatics at Ohio State University, and who will be remembered as outstanding in dramatics during her high school career.

The next two meetings of the Little Theatre group will be on Friday, June 20, and Friday, June 27, respectively, at 1 p. m. The place of the meetings will be the social room of the High School Building.

The resolution brought before Council the problem of extending water lines into other sections of the city where residents are in need of water and councilmen believed further time was required to study the question.

The resolution gives the water company authority to install 1,300 feet of 8-inch cast iron pipe on North Pickaway Street from High Street to Pleasant Street and to install fire hydrants on High Street and Pleasant Street.

Section two of the resolution authorizes the water company to install 300 feet of 6 inch pipe on Reber Avenue from the fire hydrant on the street to Atwater Avenue. One fire hydrant would be installed on North Pickaway Street north of the Hargus Creek bridge.

Expense of installing additional fire hydrants checked council's immediate action on the matter. Councilman B. H. Gordon told his colleagues that residents on Weldon Avenue and Clinton Street also were badly in need of a water supply, many of them having to carry water from other residences.

CHANGES IN AGE LIMITS FOR CITY POLICE SOUGHT

Harry Bartholomew, secretary of the Civil Service Commission, appeared before Council Wednesday night recommending that age limits for city patrolmen be widened to 21 to 45 years. Present requirements are 24 to 38 years.

Scarcity of men available for patrolman duty makes it difficult to get applicants to fill eligibility lists, Mr. Bartholomew said.

The matter was referred to the safety committee.

LITTLE THEATRE UNIT PREPARES TO START WORK

Under the direction of Samuel R. Johnson, who was assisted by Miss Ruth Stout, the Children's Little Theatre held its first meeting in Memorial Hall, Wednesday. The purpose of this preliminary meeting was to enroll children who had indicated their desire to join the club.

The members that have enrolled are:

Group I — Anna Marie Workman, Ann Curtin, Ann Snider, Florence Bowers, Jack Stout, Emily and Evelyn Lutz, Maxine Hetzler, Ruth Workman, Eleanor Mast, Charles Will, James Eitel, Charlotte Thomas, Glenn McCoy, Hilda Rhoads, Anna Ruth Deffenbaugh and Harold Green.

Group II — Dee Early, Robert McAllister, J. I. Smith, III, Jacqueline Smith, Ruth Troutman, Patricia Sue Brown, Lannie Given, Warren Carl Leist, Nancy Ann Sensenbrenner, Nancy Watt, Robert Workman, Norma Ruth Howard and Barbara Green.

The children were arranged in groups according to their ages. Group I is comprised of children whose ages range from 12 to 15. Group II has a group of children whose ages range from six to 10.

The clubs will not begin their constructive work for at least a week so that other children who have not as yet joined may do so without losing any of the foundation work.

Miss Ruth Stout, who is well known in the city for her outstanding work with young people in such organizations as the Girl Scouts, will be the assistant director of Group I. The assistant director of Group II will be Miss Marilyn Lutz, a student of dramatics at Ohio State University, and who will be remembered as outstanding in dramatics during her high school career.

The next two meetings of the Little Theatre group will be on Friday, June 20, and Friday, June 27, respectively, at 1 p. m. The place of the meetings will be the social room of the High School Building.

England has some fine specimens of the cedar of Lebanon trees, planted there in the 17th century. The tree is hardy in the United States only in the south and California.
